

LLRN5

POLAND 2021: WARSAW/LODZ

Celebrating the 10th Anniversary of LLRN Scholarship

Networking book

27-29 June 2021
Warsaw (online)

Visit the website
llrn5poland.uni.lodz.pl

AKINYEMI AKINTUNDE ABIBU

akinabibu80@gmail.com
The Federal Polytechnic Ilaro, Ogun State

Abibu, Akinyemi Akintunde is a law lecturer in the School of Management Studies, Federal Polytechnic, Ilaro, Ogun State where he has been working for over a decade. He finished from Olabisi Onabanjo University with an LL.B and bagged his LL.M. from the University of Ibadan. He teaches law courses such as Labour Law, Company Law and Land / Property Law, and focuses his research on these areas.

JEREMIAS ADAMS-PRASSL

Jeremias.adams-Prassl@law.ox.ac.uk
Oxford University

Jeremias Adams-Prassl is Professor of Law at Magdalen College, Oxford. He is particularly interested in the future of work and innovation, his recent books include Humans as a Service: the Promise and Perils of Work in the Gig Economy (OUP 2018) and Great Debates in EU Law (MacMillan 2021). Since April 2021, Jeremias leads a five-year research project on Algorithms at Work, funded by the European Research Council and a 2020 Leverhulme Prize. He tweets at @JeremiasPrassl.

MEHTAP AKGÜÇ

makguc@etui.org
ETUI

Mehtap Akgüç is a senior researcher in the Economic, Employment and Social Policies Unit at the ETUI. Her main research interests lie in the field of labour economics studying topics on labour markets, wage inequalities, migration and mobility, green and circular economy, and economic development. Previously, she worked as a visiting professor at the University of Saint-Louis in Brussels and as a research fellow at Centre for European Policy Studies (CEPS). She has a PhD, MPhil and MA in economics from Toulouse School of Economics in France and a BA in economics from Koç University in Turkey.

CHRISTOPHER ALBERTYN

chrisalbertyn@icloud.com

Chris Albertyn is an arbitrator and mediator working in Ontario, Canada. He worked as a trade union organizer in the 1970s. He practiced labour law in Durban, South Africa in the 1970s and 80s. He was the founding Director of the Centre for Socio-Legal Studies at the University of Natal in Durban. He has lived in Toronto since 1993. He was a Vice-Chair of the Ontario Labour Relations Board. He is a past President on the Ontario Labour-Management Arbitrators' Association and is a member of the National Academy of Arbitrators.

EINAT ALBIN

einat.albin@mail.huji.ac.il
Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Dr Einat Albin is an associate professor at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem that specializes in labour law. Her fields of expertise are labour rights in service work and domestic workers. She currently has research projects on 'workers' rights at an age of cybersecurity' and on balancing between human rights and public health in times of a pandemic. Einat also serves as the Academic Director of the Minerva Center for Human Rights at the Hebrew University.

EDOARDO ALES

edoardo.ales@uniparthenope.it
University of Naples "Parthenope" - Marco Biagi Foundation

Edoardo Ales (Rome 1968) is full professor of Labour Law and Industrial Relations at the Department of Law of the University of Naples "Parthenope" (Italy). Since 2005 he has been teaching at Luiss (Political Sciences and Law Departments) Labour Law, Social Security and Social Policies (national, comparative, EU and international). He has been invited professor in several European Universities. He is invited professor of International and Comparative Labour Law at the Pontifical Lateran University (Vatican State). He is Member of the Scientific Committee of the Marco Biagi Foundation of the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia (Italy).

DOMINIQUE ALLEN

dominique.allen@monash.edu
Monash University

Dr Dominique Allen is an Associate Professor in the Department of Business Law and Taxation at Monash University where she teaches employment law. She is the Director of the Labour, Equality and Human Rights research group (LEAH). Dominique has published widely on anti-discrimination law, workplace discrimination, sexual harassment and ADR both in Australia and internationally. With Neil Rees and Simon Rice, she is the author of 'Australian Anti-Discrimination and Equal Opportunity Law' (The Federation Press, 2018). Dominique has served as Secretary of the Australian Labour Law Association since 2016.

ANTONIO ALOISI

antonio.aloisi@ie.edu
IE Law School, IE University - Madrid

Marie Skłodowska-Curie Fellow and Assistant Professor of European and Comparative Labour Law at IE Law School. Prior to joining IE University, he was a Max Weber Postdoctoral Fellow at the European University Institute (EUI), Florence. He holds a doctorate in business and social law (2018) from Bocconi University, Milan. His research focuses on the impact of digital technologies on labour regulation and social institutions. The aim of his two-year MSCA "Boss Ex Machina" project is to map practices of algorithmic decision-making and untangle the technological transformation of managerial prerogatives in workplaces driven by machines, artificial intelligence and platforms.

PNINA ALON-SHENKER

pnina.alon@ryerson.ca
Ryerson University

Dr. Pnina Alon-Shenker is an Associate Professor in the Department of Law & Business, Ted Rogers School of Management, cross-appointed to the Faculty of Law at Ryerson University, and the founding Academic Director of the Ryerson Law & Business Clinic. Her research interests centre on labour and employment law with an emphasis on workplace discrimination and diversity, the aging workforce, and forms of employee representation and voice. Alon-Shenker holds an LL.B. from Haifa University, an LL.M. from the Hebrew University and the University of Toronto, and an S.J.D. from the University of Toronto.

GORDON ANDERSON

gordon.anderson@vuw.ac.nz
Victoria University of Wellington

Gordon Anderson, is Professor of Law at Victoria University of Wellington His most recent book is The Common Law of Employment, written with Douglas Brodie and Joellen Riley, Gordon was the lead editor and a contributor to Transforming Workplace Relations in New Zealand 1976-2016 (VUP 2017). Gordon has written on a variety of aspects of New Zealand employment law particularly on personal grievances, the legal and industrial relations restructuring of the last two decades and the introduction of a good faith obligation into New Zealand labour law in 2000

KATE ANDRIAS

University of Michigan

Kate Andrias is a Professor of Law at the University of Michigan. She teaches and writes about labor and employment law, constitutional law, and administrative law, with a focus on problems of economic and political inequality.

BARBARA ANT CZAK

barbara.antczak@edu.uni.lodz.pl
University of Lodz

PhD candidate at the Department of Labour Law, Faculty of Law and Administration, University of Lodz (Poland) since 2016. Admitted to the Warsaw Bar Association in 2020. Visiting student at the EU-China School of Law and Xiamen University in 2015 and 2016. Awardee of the first prize in the national competition for the best master thesis organised by the Institute of Labour and Social Studies in 2015.

KALINA ARABADJIEVA

karabadjieva@etui.org
European Trade Union Institute, Brussels

Kalina Arabadjieva is a researcher at the European Trade Union Institute, where she works on gender equality and the just transition. She completed her doctorate in labour law at the University of Oxford in 2019. Her thesis proposes a normative framework for the interpretation of the right to freedom of association under the European Convention on Human Rights and the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights. She has taught labour law at University College London and the University of Oxford.

TAKASHI ARAKI

araki@j.u-tokyo.ac.jp
University of Tokyo

Professor of Law, Dr. The University of Tokyo

ANE ARANGUIZ

ane.fernandezdearanguiz@uantwerpen.be University of Antwerp

Ane Aranguiz is a postdoctoral researcher at the Faculty of Law of the University of Antwerp and Tilburg University. Her work focuses on European social law, labour law and social citizenship. She obtained her PhD entitled 'The role of EU law in contributing to the Union's policy objective of fighting poverty and social exclusion' in September 2020 at the University of Antwerp.

PABLO ARELLANO

arellano@ilo.org
International Labour Organization

Labour Law Specialist, Labour Law and Reform Unit, Governance Department at International Labour Organization

DIAMOND ASHIAGBOR

d.ashiagbor@kent.ac.uk
University of Kent

Professor of Law, Kent Law School, University of Kent. An interdisciplinary legal scholar whose work spans labour, regions, development, economic sociology of law, and law and the humanities. Her most recent edited book was Re-imagining labour law for development: informal work in the global North and South, Hart Publishing, 2019. She has held visiting positions at Columbia Law School, Melbourne Law School, and Osgoode Hall. She is a member of the editorial board of the London Review of International Law, European Law Open, and a Fellow of the Academy of Social Sciences.

JOE ATKINSON

University of Sheffield

Joe Atkinson is a Lecturer in Law at the University of Sheffield, where he researches and teaches on employment law and human rights. He completed his PhD at University College London, and holds law degrees from the University of Oxford and London School of Economics. Before joining Sheffield, he taught at University College London, Queen Mary University of London and the University of Oxford, and was a visiting researcher at New York University. He previously worked as a Political Advisor and Senior Researcher for the Labour Party.

MATTEO AVOGARO

ESADE Institute for Labour Studies – University Ramon Llull.

I am currently postdoctoral researcher at the ESADE Institute for Labour Studies in the Horizon2020 project Equal4Europe, finalized to develop and implement Gender Equality Standards for AHMSSBL institutions throughout Europe. Before, I collaborated in 2019-2020 with the EU Agency Eurofound. I hold a PhD in Labour Law (University of Milan, 2019), a postgraduate degree in Labour Law (University of Venice, 2015) and a master's degree in Law (University of Trento, 2011). My other main research interests encompass industrial relations in the context of Industry 4.0, work-life balance/right to disconnect, and juridical solutions to enhance working conditions in the digitalized era.

EFFROSYNI BAKIRTZI

effrosyni.bakirtzi@sk.hs-fulda.de Fulda University of Applied Sciences

Effrosyni Bakirtzi, LL.M. (Frankfurt), LL.M. (Thessaloniki) is Coordinator of the university partnership project "Social Security Coordination and Migration", Adjunct Lecturer at the Fulda University of Applied Sciences (Germany) and doctoral research fellow of the interdisciplinary Joint Graduate Research School on Social Human Rights at the University of Kassel and the Fulda University of Applied Sciences (Germany). She has worked as a legal researcher at the Department of Labour Law of the Johann Wolfgang Goethe University of Frankfurt in Germany and at the K.U. Leuven (Catholic University of Leuven) in Belgium.

RICHARD BALES

r-bales@onu.edu
Ohio Northern University Law School

Rick Bales is a faculty member at Ohio Northern University Law School. He teaches a wide variety of labor/employment and ADR courses, Torts, and Civil Procedure. He has published more than eighty scholarly articles and authored or co-authored eight books on a variety of topics related to labor/employment/ADR. His most recent scholarship focuses on labor arbitration awards related to the COVID-19 pandemic.

PAMHIDZAI BAMU

pamhidzai.bamu@wiego.org
WIEGO

Law Programme Coordinator at WIEGO. Pamhidzai holds an LLB, LLM and a PhD from the University of Cape Town. She has worked as a labour law researcher the University of Cape Town and the University of the Western Cape. She completed a Post-Doctoral Research Fellowship on Zimbabwe's informal economy at Stellenbosch University. She has consulted for the ILO Pretoria, Harare and Geneva offices and other organizations on various labour issues. She coordinates projects on domestic workers and street vendors' rights at WIEGO. Her passion is empowering ordinary workers to know, use and shape the law.

MICHAŁ BARAŃSKI

michal.baranski@us.edu.pl
University of Silesia in Katowice

Dr Michał Barański, PhD, is a leader of the Labour Law and Social Policy Research Team at the Institute of Legal Sciences at the University of Silesia in Katowice and is an attorney-at-law. He participated in an international research project entitled "Implementation and Enforcement of EU Labour Law in Visegrad Countries" under which he prepared the study "Adapting the Polish labour law to the EU law in the subject of working time". He is Editor-in-chief of an academic journal "Z Problematyki Prawa Pracy i Polityki Socjalnej" ("Problems of Labour Law and Social Politics").

LIZZIE BARMES

e.m.barmes@qmul.ac.uk
Queen Mary University of London

Lizzie Barmes is Professor of Labour Law at Queen Mary University of London and co-Director of the School of Law Centre for Research on Law, Equality and Diversity. Her main research interests are in the functioning in practice of labour and equality law, adjudication and judicial diversity, bullying and harassment at work, the common law of the contract of employment, positive or affirmative action, and the use of non-disclosure agreements and confidentiality obligations at work. Methodologically she has a long-standing interest in empirical legal research and inter-disciplinarity.

ALBERTO BARRIO

KU Leuven

Alberto Barrio performs research on in-work poverty and vulnerable workers at KU Leuven as part of the Horizon 2020 project 'Working Yet Poor'. Before that, he was a PhD candidate at Tilburg University, working on the topic of social security and platform work.

ELISABETH BARTMANN

University of Vienna

Elisabeth Bartmann, LL.B. (WU), LL.M. (WU), research and teaching assistant at the Institute for Labour and Social Security Law at the University of Vienna, Austria.

LEONARDO BATTISTA

leonardo.battista2@unibo.it
Alma Mater Studiorum - University of Bologna

Post-Doc Researcher in Labour Law at the Alma Mater Studiorum - University of Bologna. His main research interests are focused on European Labour Law, Self-employment in Europe and Working poor. He is Publishing Manager and member of the Editorial Board of the Italian Labour Law e-Journal and he is academic tutor, since 2016, of the courses in Labour Law, Comparative Labour Law and Industrial Relations. He has been three times Visiting Researcher at Lund University in the Business Law Department, where he held several lectures.

STEFANIA BATTISTELLI

stef.battistelli@gmail.com
University of Verona

Stefania Battistelli is a postdoctoral researcher in labour law at the Department of Law at the University of Verona. Her PhD thesis focuses on managing health and safety in outsourced relationships. Her research is based on social and criminal corporate responsibilities and on labour exploitation in the agri-food sector.

TANIA BAZZANI

Bazzani@europa-uni.de
European University Viadrina

Dr. Tania Bazzani is a Post Doc researcher of social law at the European University Viadrina. The last two years she worked as a visiting Professor at the University Pompeu Fabra, Barcelona, where she taught International, European and Spanish labour law. Prior that, she was awarded the Marie Curie Individual-Fellowship and worked at the Humboldt-Universität, Berlin (2 years). PhD in Labour Law at the Verona University in 2013 (maximum vote). Research interests: social security law (e.g., unemployment, activation policies); labour law (digitalization-definition of worker: EESC Project; self-employment; gender equality: research team proposal of a pay transparency directive); social citizenship, sustainability.

MARK BELL

mark.bell@tcd.ie
Trinity College Dublin

Mark Bell is Regius Professor of Laws and a Fellow of Trinity College Dublin. Prior to his appointment at Trinity, he was a professor at the School of Law, University of Leicester, where he was also Head of the School of Law (2011-2014). Mark has published regularly on Anti-Discrimination Law and Employment Law, particularly in relation to EU Law. He is co-editor of International and European Labour Law: A Commentary (Nomos 2018).

JANICE BELLACE

bellace@wharton.upenn.edu
University of Pennsylvania

Professor. Most recent articles and papers focus on the application of international human rights, as expressed in core labour standards and labour clauses in trade agreements, and how these shape regulation and corporate behavior in global supply chains. Her most recent books are "Labour, Business and Human Rights Law" (Bellace & Haar, 2019), and "The Right to Strike in International Law" (Jeffrey Vogt et al, 2020). Recent articles examine the labour clauses in free trade agreements, and how they are enforced.

RENAN BERNARDI KALIL

renan.kalil@gmail.com
Labor Prosecution Service

PhD in Law (University of Sao Paulo). Labor prosecutor and Deputy Head of the Labor International Cooperation Unit (MPT). Member of the Research Group on Modern Slavery of the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro (GPTEC), member of the Working Group on Digital Labor of the Network of Studies and Interdisciplinary Monitoring of Labor Reform (REMIR) and member of the Study Group on the Impacts of New Morphologies of Work of the Institute of Advanced Studies of the University of Sao Paulo (IEA-USP).

STEPHANIE BERNSTEIN

bernstein.stephanie@uqam.ca
Université du Québec à Montréal

Stephanie Bernstein has been a professor at the Law Department of the Université du Québec à Montréal since 2003, where she teaches national, international and comparative labour law. Her recent research focuses on the working conditions and legal rights of paid care workers, work-family conflict and, more generally, on the regulation of precarious work. She has participated in a number of interdisciplinary research teams engaged in collaborative and participatory research with community and union organizations. She is a member of CINBIOSE, SAGE : Équipe de recherche interdisciplinaire sur le travail Santé-Genre-Égalité and the Interuniversity Research Centre on Globalization and Work

PHILIPP BERTSCH

University of Vienna

Mag. iur. Philipp Bertsch is a university assistant (prae doc) at the Institute for Labor and Social Security Law of the University of Vienna.

MARCO BIASI

marco.biasi@unimi.it
University of Milan

Marco Biasi is an Assistant Professor of Labour Law at the Law Department "Cesare Beccaria" of the University of Milan, Italy, where he currently teaches, inter alia, Comparative Labour Law. After completing his PhD in 2013, he was Post-Doc at the University of Venice Ca' Foscari and Visiting Professor at the University of Cornell in 2015. He authored two books, edited three books and published several articles in Italian and in English. His main fields of are: dismissal protection policies; on-demand work; vicarious liability; employee involvement in the management of companies; the regulation of labor in the sports industry.

ALYSIA BLACKHAM

alysia.blackham@unimelb.edu.au
University of Melbourne

Dr Alysia Blackham is an Associate Professor at Melbourne Law School at the University of Melbourne. Alysia's research uses empirical legal research methods to examine the intersection between public and private law, with a particular focus on age equality issues. From 2017-21, Alysia was an Australian Research Council Discovery Early Career Research Fellow, undertaking the project DE170100228, 'Addressing Age Discrimination in Employment'. The results of the project are published at ageworks.info

MATTHEW BODIE

matthew.bodie@slu.edu
Saint Louis University

Matthew Bodie is the Callis Family Professor and Co-Director of the Wefel Center for Employment Law at Saint Louis University School of Law. Website: <https://www.slu.edu/law/faculty/matt-bodie.php> SSRN: https://papers.ssrn.com/sol3/cf_dev/AbsByAuth.cfm?per_id=333274

ALAN BOGG

alan.bogg@bristol.ac.uk
University of Bristol

Professor of Labour Law at the University of Bristol. Formerly Professor of Labour Law at the University of Oxford.

VLADIMIR BOGOESKI

v.bogoeski@uva.nl
University of Amsterdam

Vladimir Bogoeski is a postdoctoral researcher at the Amsterdam Centre for Transformative Private Law. He is part of the N-EXTLAW Project (Law as a vehicle for social change: Mainstreaming non-extractive economic practices) and his current work is suited in the intersection of private law, labour law and political economy of labour. His research deals with questions of how private law currently structures work relations, focusing on worker cooperatives as an alternative model of organising economic activity and work. He is generally interested in critical approaches to law, participatory action research (PAR), organising and synergies between scholarship and social movements.

OLIVIA BONARDI

olivia.bonardi@unimi.it
Università degli studi di Milano

Born in 1966, Prof. Olivia Bonardi is full professor of Labour law in the University of Milan. She teaches both “Labour Law” and “Migration, Diversity and non Discrimination Law”. She is Codirector of the journal Rivista giuridica del lavoro e della previdenza sociale, since september 2015. Her research interests encompass the legal regulation of work both at international, european and national level. Her main research fields include health and safety at work, social security and non discrimination law. In the most recent years she has studied working conditions in the logistics industry and gangmaster organization in agricultural work.

GERRARD BOOT

g.boot@rechtspraak.nl
Leiden University

professor labour law Leiden University; judge in Court of Appeal, Amsterdam, Netherlands

ELISABETH BRAMESHUBER

elisabeth.brameshuber@univie.ac.at University of Vienna

Full Professor for Labour and Social Security Law, University of Vienna. Deputy Head of the Institute for Labour Law and Social Security Law, University of Vienna. Prior positions as Assistant Professor at WU Vienna University of Economics and Business and as Substitute Professor Professor for Private Law, Labour Law, Commercial and Company Law and Comparative Law, Ruhr-University Bochum, Germany, amongst others. Visiting researcher at IAAEU Trier, Germany, and IECL Oxford, UK, amongst others. Co-project manager of COGENS –Collective Bargaining and the Gig-Economy –New Perspectives (VS/2019/0084; DG Employment, Social Affairs and Inclusion). See: <https://arbeitsrecht.univie.ac.at/team/brameshuber-elisabeth/>

JUDITH BROCKMANN

judith.brockmann@haw-hamburg.de Hamburg University of Applied Sciences (HAW Hamburg)

Judith Brockmann studied law in Hamburg and Paris (Paris XI). She started working at Hamburg University of Applied Sciences (HAW Hamburg) in 2020. Before, she has been member of Hamburg University's law faculty for several years, after some years of being an independent lawyer in a Hamburg based law firm. In her research, Judith is focusing on interactions between labour law and social security law, also in a comparative law perspective. She is member of the European INLACRIS network and the Franco-German research group GEFACET.

TEQUILA BROOKS

Tequila.J.Brooks@gmail.com
TJ Brooks, Esq.

Comparative Labor Law Scholar and Attorney with LLM from Tilburg University Law School, LLM from the George Washington University Law School, and JD from University of New Mexico Law School. Former Labor Law Advisor to North American Commission for Labor Cooperation. Research focus is on regional labor law systems, trade and labor, trade and gender, migrant worker rights.

RON BROWN

ronaldc@hawaii.edu
University of Hawaii Law School

Ron Brown is a law professor at the University of Hawaii Law School teaching labor and Asian international labor law and has served as the University's Director of the Center for Chinese Studies. He has authored numerous articles, including on labor provisions in FTAs in EU, China, and South America, and has published, East Asian Labor and Employment Law, Understanding Labor & Employment Law in China, and Understanding Chinese Courts and Legal Process: Law with Chinese Characteristics.

NIKLAS BRUUN

niklas.bruun@hanken.fi
Hanken School of Economics

Niklas Bruun LL.D., Finland, is professor emeritus at the Hanken School of Economics, Helsinki. He is an expert in labour law including equality and intellectual property law and has published numerous books and articles. He has been a member of the Freedom of Association Committee, ILO 1996-1998, 2005-2007, 2012 - 2014 and of the CEDAW Committee (UN) during 2009-2016. Bruun is a frequently used expert by EU Institutions and ILO. Bruun is a member of the Scientific Board of the ELLN-network (EU) and of the TTUR-group (ETUI). Bruun is at present guest professor (part time) Stockholm University (Faculty of Law).

STAN BRUURS

stan.bruurs@kuleuven.be
KU Leuven

Stan Bruurs is a doctoral researcher and teaching assistant at the Institute for Labour Law, KU Leuven. His field of research is European Labour Law and in particular smart mobility, the European labour market and fair mobility. His dissertation assesses the European approach to transnational labour in the new world of work with a focus on the provisions of the free movement of workers and services (posting) and private international law.

NICOLAS BUENO

nicolas.bueno@uzh.ch
University of Zurich

Dr. Nicolas Bueno is a postdoctoral researcher at the University of Zurich where he leads the research project "Rethinking Labour Rights in the Human Economy". His research is funded by the Swiss National Science Foundation. It deals with economic liberalism, socialism and the role of work in contemporary societies. Dr. Bueno publishes extensively on labour rights and human rights in international journals.

ALEXIS BUGADA

alexis.bugada@univ-amu.fr
Aix-Marseille University

Full professor at Aix Marseille University (France). Director of Labor law center research of AMU. Specialist in labor law and social security. Member of Agreement project (environment and collective bargaining). Principal fields of research : procedural issues, collective bargaining, individual contract, health at work, discrimination, class action in labor field, environmental perspectives for labor and industrial relationship. More informations : - <https://cds.univ-amu.fr>

DAVID CABRELLI

david.cabrelli@ed.ac.uk
University of Edinburgh

David Cabrelli has published papers in numerous academic journals in the field of labour/employment law, together with a textbook on UK employment law (now in its fourth edition). He is currently in the process of completing a text on employment law for OUP's Very Short Introduction series. One of David's employment law articles was cited with approval by Lords Hope, Wilson and Sumption in the UK Supreme Court in Société Générale (London Branch) v Geys [2013] 1 AC 523 and various other articles published by David have been cited by the Federal Court of Australia and the Hong Kong High Court.

LAURA CALAFÀ

University of Verona

Laura Calafà teaches Labour Law, European Law, Antidiscrimination Law. She carried out research projects in the fields of antidiscrimination, labour e social law. She coordinates project DXB - Identities on the move - Documents cross borders' (Grant Agreement no. 101007502 EU Justice Program 2014-2020) and Project FARm [Modello di Filiera dell'Agricoltura Responsabile; FAMI - Avviso 1/19].

CALOGERO MASSIMO CAMMALLERI

ccammalleri@gmail.com
University of Palermo

Associate professor of Labour and social security law at the University of Palermo, Attorney at law and Bar at Committee of Attorneys at law of Agrigento. Judge at CTR/Lombardia (namely Tax Court of Appeal for Lombardy). Director of the attorneys at law's law-school of Agrigento. Editor in chief and director of «temilavoro.it. - internet synopsis of labour and social security law». Founder of TTRT (The Temilavoro Research TEAM). Speaker at many international conferences (World and European ISSLS, ILERA, LLRN and many others). Author and editor of books, article and case law comments, both in Italian and English.

RODRIGO CARELLI

rodrigolcarelli@gmail.com
Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro

Labour Law Professor at Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Coordinator of the research group Trab21, Trabalho no Século XXI. Prosecutor at the Labour Prosecutors Office.

AUDE CEFALIELLO

acefaliello@etui.org
ETUI

Aude Cefaliello joined the ETUI in October 2020 as legal researcher in the health and safety, working conditions Unit. She previously specialised in OSH with a socio-legal and comparative approach at the University of Glasgow. There, she gained a PhD at the Law School in 2020 after completing a thesis on ways to improve the legal framework governing OSH in EU. She also hold an LL.M degree from the same university, where she conducted a comparative research study on Collective bargaining.

GIULIO CENTAMORE

giulio.centamore2@unibo.it
University of Bologna

Giulio Centamore is assistant professor in labour law at the University of Bologna. He is working on a project on in-work poverty and his research is mainly focused on collective bargaining, minimum wages and industrial relations.

CONSUELO CHACARTEGUI

chelo.chacartegui@upf.edu
University Pompeu Fabra

Dr. Consuelo Chacartegui Jávega is associate professor at Pompeu Fabra University (Barcelona). She received her PhD in 1998 with the PhD dissertation 'Temporary Work Agencies and Employment Contract' obtaining Excellent Cum Laude (unanimity). Member of the Research Group in Labour Law and Social Security (GREDTiSS-UPF). Her research interests are focused on European and international social law, social protection and accidents at work, gender and sexual orientation discrimination, human rights at work and environmental sustainability. She has been PI in the UPF of the European project Agreement-A Green Mentality for Collective Bargaining, led by ADAPT and funded by the European Commission.

ANNA CHAPMAN

University of Melbourne

Anna Chapman is a Professor in the Centre for Employment and Labour Relations Law, Melbourne Law School at the University of Melbourne, Australia. Her teaching and research interests lie in equality concerns and legal regulation of the labour market.

ALEXANDRE CHARBONNEAU

alexandre.charbonneau@u-bordeaux.fr
Université de Bordeaux

Senior Lecturer at the University of Bordeaux since 2009 (UMR CNRS COMPTRASEC). My research work concerns maritime labor law and occupational health and safety law, more specifically in the agricultural sector. Since 2008, I have been collaborating regularly with the International Labor Office on issues related to maritime and fishing labor

MIRIAM CHERRY

miriam.cherry@slu.edu
Saint Louis University Law School

Miriam A. Cherry is a Professor of Law and Associate Dean of Research and Engagement at Saint Louis University Law School. She is a co-editor of "Invisible Labor: Hidden Work in the Contemporary World" and the author of the textbook "Work in a Digital Age: Labor, Technology, and Regulation." Her work focuses on the gig economy and the future of work.

OLGA CHESALINA

chesalina@mpisoc.mpg.de
Max Planck Institute for Social Law and Social Policy

Olga Chesalina graduated in 1998 from the Law Faculty of the Belarusian State University; in 2002, she completed her doctoral thesis; in 2005, she received the academic title of "Associate Professor". Since 2008, she has been working at the Max Planck Institute for Social Law and Social Policy, Department of Foreign and International Social Law. She was co-editor of the book "Die Verantwortung des Arbeitgebers für den sozialen Schutz in Russland and of the book "Social Law 4.0: New Approaches for Ensuring and Financing Social Security in the Digital Age" published by Nomos in 2018 and 2021.

ELISA CHIAREGATO

elisa.chiaregato@univr.it Goethe University Frankfurt / University of Verona

Research Fellow at the Goethe University Frankfurt, member of the managing team of the European Centre of Expertise in the field of Labour Law, Employment and Labour Market Policies (ECE), and PhD Candidate at the Department of Law of the University of Verona. Her research focuses on gender inequalities in care and employment, with a specific interest in work–life balance policies and the regulation of (paid and unpaid) care work. Her doctoral research explores the regulatory challenges of promoting decent work for domestic workers in Europe.

NAIVI CHIKOC BARREDA

nchikocb@uottawa.ca
University of Ottawa

Naivi Chikoc Barreda is assistant professor of Private International Law at the University of Ottawa. She has been offered a grant from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada to support her research project on the legal challenges of cross-border teleworking (co-researcher: professor Stéphanie Bernstein).

YU-FAN CHIU

yfchiu1229@gmail.com
School of Law, National Yang Ming Chiao Tung University

Yu-Fan Chiu studied law at National Taiwan University, National Chengchi University in Taiwan and Göttingen University in Germany. She passed the bar exam and practiced as a lawyer in Taiwan from 2004 to 2008. As a PhD scholarship holder of the Taiwanese Ministry of Education and Germany's Hans-Böckler Foundation from 2011 to 2015, she received her PhD degree in Law at the University of Göttingen. Since 2016, she is Associate Professor for Labor Law and Civil Law at the School of Law, National Yang Ming Chiao Tung University and member of the Board for Decision on the Unfair Labor Practices.

FACUNDO MARTIN CHIUFFO

facundo.chiuffo@live.com
University of Buenos Aires

Law graduate and master's student at the University of Buenos Aires, Argentina. Labour Law Specialist. Member of the Argentinian Association of Labour and Social Security Law. Member of the Argentinian Delegation - Young Legal Scholars Section of the International Society for Labour and Social Security Law. ORCID iD: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-8017-8268>.

SUKHWAN CHOI

shchoi@snu.ac.kr
School of Law, Seoul National University

Assistant Professor, School of Law, Seoul National University (Labor Law, Employment Law)

MUHAMMAD CHOWDHURY

m.shaheen@cu.ac.bd
University of Chittagong

Dr. Shaheen is a Professor of Law in Bangladesh. Compliance with labor standards, industrial relations, trade union & dispute settlement are his specialization areas. He acted as employment law specialist for various organizations concerning decent work, health & safety, workplace grievance, labour relations, social security, child labour etc. He is affiliated with global platforms which promote research and advocacy on workers' rights & human development. He contributed to recent labour law reforms in Bangladesh and suggested policy recommendations to ILO to improve tripartism and social dialogue. He presented papers in conferences and seminars and published articles in accredited journals.

FLORE CLAUS

flore.claus@ugent.be Ghent University

Flore Claus is PhD Student at the Department of Social Law, Faculty of Law at Ghent University. For her PhD, she researches the labour law aspects implementing (a right to) lifelong learning. Her main research interests are the social fundamental rights and the interference of labour law with the educational field. For this Conference, she wrote with Professor Alexander De Becker (Professor Labour Law University of Ghent) the article "The right to laziness: the missing link with regard to the development of the basic income".

CHRISTIANA CLERIDOU

christiana.cleridou@gmail.com
University of Cyprus

Dr Christiana Cleridou obtained a LL.B., a LL.M. in International law and a PhD from the University of Bristol. She also holds a M.A. with Distinction in European law from King's College London. Her PhD thesis examined the impact of female voices in hard and soft law in relation to equal pay in Cyprus. She has been awarded scholarships for her studies. Dr Cleridou has extensive experience in teaching and practicing law in Cyprus and the UK. She currently teaches Labour Law and Gender and the Law, Department of Law, University of Cyprus.

ALBERTO CODDOU MC MANUS

alberto.coddou@uach.cl Austral University

Lawyer (University of Chile), LLM (New York University), PhD (University of London). Professor of Constitutional Law and International Human Rights Law at Austral University (Valdivia, Chile). He participated in the research team that wrote the WESO 2021 report ("The role of digital labour platforms in transforming the world of work"). Currently, his lines of research are in the areas of data protection, algorithmic discrimination and the gig economy.

TERESA COELHO MOREIRA

School of Law/University of Minho

Teresa Coelho Moreira is Professor in University of Minho, School of Law, Portugal

EUSEBI COLÀS-NEILA

eusebi.colas@upf.edu
Univ. Pompeu Fabra (UPF)

Associate Professor (int.) of Labour and Social Security Law and Academic Director of the Bachelor's Degree Programme in Labour Relations at the Univ. Pompeu Fabra (UPF). Tutor of the Master in Labour and Social Security Law in the UPF Barcelona School of Management. He is a member in the Research Group in Labour and Social Security Law (greDTISS), affiliated to the Labour Law Research Network (LLRN). He has participated in several national and international competitive research projects. His scientific output includes a book, various articles in scientific journals, contributions to collective books and also national and international congresses, workshops and seminars.

PHILIPPA COLLINS

University of Bristol

Philippa Collins is a Lecturer in Law at the University of Bristol, where she is a member of the Centre for Law at Work. Her research focuses on the intersection between labour law and human rights law, as well as an interest in the law of dismissal and the integration of technology in the workplace. Before joining the University of Bristol, Philippa was a lecturer at the University of Exeter and she holds degrees from the University of Oxford and the University of Birmingham.

HUGH COLLINS

h.collins@lse.ac.uk
London School of Economics

Hugh Collins studied law at the University of Oxford and Harvard Law School. He is Cassel Professor of Commercial Law at the London School of Economics and Emeritus Vinerian Professor of English Law at All Souls College, Oxford. His books include Justice in Dismissal (OUP, 1992), Employment Law 2nd edn (OUP, 2010); Foundations of Indirect Discrimination Law, (ed. with T Khaitan, Hart, 2018); Philosophical Foundations of Labour Law (with G Lester, V Mantouvalou eds) (OUP, 2018).

LANCE COMPA

lac24@cornell.edu
Cornell ILR School

Lance Compa is an international labor law scholar now based in San Diego, California after retiring from Cornell's ILR School in 2019. He continues teaching at the University of San Diego law school and participating in research projects with Cornell colleagues. He also undertakes consulting projects for trade unions and NGOs. In 2020 he was appointed to the U.S. roster of the Rapid Response mechanism under the U.S.-Mexico-Canada trade agreement.

SEAN COONEY

s.cooney@unimelb.edu.au
The University of Melbourne

Sean Cooney's research interests concern international and comparative labour and employment law, with a focus on Asia. He has worked on new approaches to improving international working standards, including on Chinese and Vietnamese labour law reform; enforcement in Australia; and assessing the effect of legal change in several Asia-Pacific countries. He has published articles in major refereed law journals in the United States, China and Australia. Between 2014 and 2016, Sean served as a Legal Specialist in the Labour Law and Reform Unit at the International Labour Organization in Geneva.

FREDERICO COSTA

fredericocosta@msn.com
Federal University of Ouro Preto

Master's student in the Graduate Law Program at the Federal University of Ouro Preto. Specialist in Procedural Law from the Federal University of Juiz de Fora (UFJF/2012) and Graduated in Law by the Presidente Antônio Carlos University (UNIPAC). Member of the Study and Research Group Social and Environmental (GEPISA). Lawyer.

NICOLA COUNTOURIS

UCL and ETUI

Nicola Countouris is the Director of the Research Department at the European Trade Union Institute (ETUI) and a Professor in Labour Law and European Law at the Faculty of Laws of University College London (UCL). Before joining the ETUI and UCL he had taught law at the Universities of Reading, LSE, and Oxford, where he also obtained his DPhil under the supervision of Professor Mark Freedland. He has acted as an independent expert for the International Labour Office, the ETUC, and on a number of European Commission funded projects.

PAWEŁ CZARNECKI

p.czarnecki@uksw.edu.pl
The Cardinal Wyszyński University in Warsaw

Works at the Cardinal Stephan Wyszyński University in Warsaw as an assistant professor at the Institute of Legal Studies, the Department of Labour Law.

VICTOR DA SILVA

victor.raduansilva@gmail.com
University of Sao Paulo (USP), Faculty of Law

He is a Doctoral student in the Faculty of Law, University of Sao Paulo (FD-USP). In the Brazilian Bar Association - Sao Paulo Branch (OAB-SP), he participates in the Coordination of International Labor Law - Special Commission on Labor Law. As part of his Undergraduate course, he studied at the Autonomous University of Madrid (UAM), Spain, and, during his Master's, he attended the "Law in Japan" Program at Meiji University, Japan. He helped in the foundation and is a member of the Research Group on Migration and International Labor Law (GEMDIT) of the FD-USP. ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-0113-5324>.

ANNE DAVIES

anne.davies@law.ox.ac.uk
Faculty of Law, University of Oxford

Professor of Law and Public Policy, Faculty of Law, University of Oxford. Editor in Chief of the International Journal of Comparative Labour Law and Industrial Relations: ijcllr@gmail.com.

KONSTANTINA DAVAKI

K.Davaki@lse.ac.uk
Konstantina Davaki

Dr Konstantina Davaki is a researcher at the London School of Economics. Her background in law, sociology and social policy is reflected on her main research interests: gender, comparative social policy, work/life balance, family policy, violence against women, intersectional discrimination digital labour, digital gender gap and welfare ideologies in a globalised world. Konstantina has taught postgraduate courses in the UK and abroad. Since 2010 she has been advising the Committee on Women's Rights and Gender Equality (FEMM) of the European Parliament. Her academic publications include articles in peer-reviewed journals, book chapters and reports.

ALEXANDER DE BECKER

alexander.debecker@ugent.be University of Ghent

I am Professor Labour Law at Ghent University (Belgium). I currently also am the President of the Belgian Society for Labour and Social Security Law and the co-president of the Lab for International and Interdisciplinary Social Affairs (LIISA) at the UGent. I was guest researcher at the different universities (Kopenhagen, Reading, Oxford, Stockholm, Madison-Wisconsin, EUI, Turin) and I held the Chair "The State as employer" at the Universities of Amsterdam and Leiden. I have a strong specialisation in comparative civil service law and labour and employment conditions in the public sector.

GUY DAVIDOV

guy.davidov@mail.huji.ac.il
Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Guy Davidov is the Elias Lieberman Professor of Labour Law at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. He was the founder and first Chair of the LLRN. He was also the Editor-in-Chief of the International Journal of Comparative Labour Law and Industrial Relations (2015-2020). His book A Purposive Approach to Labour Law was published by OUP in 2016. He has also co-edited (with Brian Langille) two influential books, Boundaries and Frontiers of Labour Law (Hart, 2006) and The Idea of Labour Law (Oxford UP, 2011).

ALEXANDRE DE LE COURT

Universitat Pompeu Fabra

Alexandre de le Court is Lecturer in Labour and Social Security Law at the Pompeu Fabra University Barcelona. A former lawyer at the Brussels Bar, he started teaching and researching those subjects as member of greDTISS, the UPF Consolidated Research Group in Labour and Social Security Law, in 2010. His research focuses on Comparative and International Labour and Social Security Law, precarious work and the connections between Labour Law and Social Security. He has been a visiting scholar at the Max Planck Institute for Social Law and Social Policy and the Law Faculty of the Austral University of Chile.

VALERIO DE STEFANO

KU Leuven

Valerio De Stefano is the BOF-ZAP Professor of Labour Law at the KU Leuven, in Belgium, where he is also the principal investigator for various grants on technology and labour regulation and leads a team of junior researchers focusing on law and technologies.

MARIA-CRISTINA DEGOLI

UCLouvain

Maria-Cristina Degoli is a Postdoctoral Researcher at the Law School of UCLouvain and a Teaching Fellow in Social Security Law at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia (Italy). In 2014 she obtained her PhD in Law from the Université Toulouse 1 Capitole (France). In 2018 her research project «Fragmented careers and pension solutions (FRACAPS)» was granted the FSR Incoming Post-doc fellowship by UCLouvain. This project aims to contribute to the pensions debate from a legal perspective, looking at the financial sustainability and social adequacy of pension entitlements for shorter or more fragmented careers.

ILARIA DEL GIGLIO

Fondazione Marco Biagi Unimore

I am a labor lawyer and research doctor at the Marco Biagi Foundation. My research project concerns people analytics and privacy in employment. I am an expert in privacy having obtained a master's degree in DPO.

RICCARDO DEL PUNTA

delpunta@studio-lex.it Universita' Degli Studi Di Firenze

Born in 1957, he is Full Professor of Labour Law at the University of Florence, after previous teaching experiences in the Universities of Pisa, Trieste, Siena. He has numerous publications and essays in the field of Labour Law. He is especially active on the identity and the perspectives of Labour Law and its relationships with other social sciences. He is member of the Italian Association of Labour Lawyers and founding member of Labour Law Community and the Italian Society of Law and Economics. He is member of the advisory board of "The International Journal of Comparative Labour Law and Industrial

ELISE DERMINE

elise.dermine@ulb.be Université libre de Bruxelles

Elise Dermine is professor of labour law at the Université libre de Bruxelles. She teaches courses related to labour law. Her research focuses on the situation of people who work outside or at the margins of the protections of labour law (welfare recipients forced to work in exchange for their social benefits, atypical workers, etc.), the transformations of the Welfare State and fundamental social rights. She is also interested in access to justice of people at risk of poverty. She runs the Street Law Clinic in social law which she founded in 2019.

HÉLÈNE DEROUBAIX

Université libre de Bruxelles

Hélène Deroubaix is a PhD researcher at the Université libre de Bruxelles (center for public law). She is conducting a research on the legal aspects of the problematic of non-take-up. Prior to being a PhD researcher, Hélène was an attorney-at-law at the Brussels bar.

ELAINE DEWHURST

elaine.dewhurst@manchester.ac.uk
University of Manchester

Elaine Dewhurst is a Senior Lecturer in Employment Law at the University of Manchester and is an expert in equality law, mainly in the field of age discrimination. She is the Ground Expert on Age for the European Equality Law Network. She has published widely in this field and is currently working on funded work relating to intersectional discrimination of older women in Manchester.

MANOJ DIAS-ABEY

manoj.dias-abey@bristol.ac.uk
University of Bristol

Manoj Dias-Abey is a Lecturer in Law at the University of Bristol. Manoj is broadly interested in the law of work, migration, and political economy. Prior to joining the University of Bristol School of Law, Manoj completed his graduate and postdoctoral work in Canada on the legal strategies of labour organisations defending the rights of migrant agricultural workers in North America. He is currently working on a research project examining the role of labour intermediaries in the UK's new pilot seasonal agricultural worker programme, and another on the impacts of migration on the legal institutions of labour markets.

CLAUDE DIDRY

claudedidry@ens.fr
CNRS

Claude Didry is sociology professor at the CNRS (Centre Maurice Halbwachs based in the Ecole Normale Supérieure). He considers the evolution of labor and the dynamics of industrial relations in the framework of labor law through its mobilization in the course of work, collective actions and mobilizations of law before judges. He has notably published L'institution du travail, droit et salariat dans l'histoire [Labor institution, law and salary in history] (2016) and « Les midinettes, avant-garde oubliée du prolétariat » [Young Parisian Department Store Seamstresses: A Forgotten Avant-Garde of the Proletariat] (in L'Homme & la Société 189-190, 2013).

PIERLUIGI DIGENNARO

digennaropierluigi@gmail.com
University of Milan

Pierluigi Digennaro gained his PhD in Labour Law at the University of Bari and spent a period at the UCL as a visiting PhD. He was awarded the AIDLASS Barassi Prize for the best thesis of the year in Italy. Pierluigi was an Overseas Researcher under the fellowship awarded by the JSPS at the Meiji University of Tokyo, and he also spent four months at the Waseda University of Tokyo as a visiting researcher. In July 2019, he joined the SHARE team, to work within a project funded from the ERC on the topic of solo self-employment (https://sites.unimi.it/erc_share/).

WENWEN DING

dingwenwenruc@gmail.com
China University of Political Science and Law

Wenwen Ding is an Assistant Professor at the China University of Political Science and Law. She received her S.J.D. from the University of Virginia Law School and her L.L.M from University of Pennsylvania Law School. Her current research focuses on employment protection legislation and minimum wages.

KUBRA DOĞAN YENISEY

kubra.dogan@bilgi.edu.tr
Istanbul Bilgi University

Prof. Dr. Kübra Dogan-Yenisey, Turkey, graduated from the Faculty of Law, University of Ankara. In 1996, she went to Switzerland as scholarship holder of Swiss Confederation. In 1998, received her DES, and she earned her PhD by her thesis on 'La modification du contrat de travail, Etude de droit suisse et de droit francais' (published by Schultess) in 2000. Since 2008, Dr. Dogan-Yenisey is working at Istanbul Bilgi University, Faculty of Law. Her main research areas are future of work, technology and its impacts on labour law, migrant workers and discrimination

MICHAEL DOHERTY

michael.b.doherty@mu.ie
Maynooth University

Michael Doherty is a Full Professor of Law, with particular expertise in the areas of EU employment and labour law. He has published widely on these topics, and presented work at numerous international conferences. He has worked on research projects projects for the European Commission, European Parliament, and as part of European-wide research networks on issues relating to cross-border working terms and conditions, and is a member of several European research networks looking at links between employment law and competition/company law. He is Head of the Law Department at Maynooth University, the largest fastest growing law school in Ireland.

DAVID DOOREY

ddoorey@yorku.ca
York University

Associate Professor of Labour and Employment Law, York University, Toronto. Academic Director, PD LL.M Labour and Employment Law, Osgoode Hall Law School. Senior Research Associate, Harvard Labor and Worklife Program. University of Toronto (B.A., M.I.R.), London School of Economics (LL.M Labour Law), Osgoode Hall Law School (LL.B, PhD).

FILIP DORSSEMONT

filip.dorssemont@uclouvain.be Université Catholique de Louvain

Filip Dorssemont is Full Professor of Labour Law at the Université catholique de Louvain (Uclouvain). He is guestprofessor at the Vrije Universiteit Brussel. He is President of the School of Labour Sciences at the Uclouvain. He is past President and currently Co President of the Belgian Association of Labour Law and Social Security Law. He is doctor in Law (2001, Antwerp University), Master in Philosophy (Leuven, 1994) and is a student in History of Art (Uclouvain). He is part of the Editorial board of the Revue de droit social (Belgium), and of the Scientific Committee of European Employment law Cases.

MARIANA DOS ANJOS RAMOS CARVALHO E SILVA

mariana.ramos@usp.br
University of Sao Paulo

Law Phd Candidate - University of Sao Paulo. Masteras International Law Degree - University of Sao Paulo. Researcher at GEMDIT - Group of Research on Migration and International Labor Law) of University of Sao Paulo (USP) – Faculty of Law. Partner - Lawyer specialized in Labor Relations and Social Security at Anjos Ramos Sociedade de Advogados (Lawfirm). Interested in employment and labor relations, human rights, alternative dispute resolution methods, access to justice, Information and communication technologies.

ISTVÁN HORVÁTH

horvath.istvan@ajk.elte.hu
Eötvös Loránd University Labour and Social Law Department

István Horváth is a head of department of Labour Law and Social Law Department at Eötvös Loránd University in Budapest. After his graduation in Budapest, he continued his studies in Inter-University Center in Dubrovnik, Tampere, Speyer and Warwick. After 1990, he worked in the Ministry of Labour. He took part in the elaboration of the Labour Code and the Civil Servants Act, and later in the harmonization of labour law necessary for Hungary's accession to the EU. The topic of the PhD was the civil service (2007), the topic of the habilitation was the temporary agency work (2014).

VEENA DUBAL

Dubalv@uchastings.edu
University of California, Hastings

Professor Veena Dubal's research focuses on the intersection of law, technology, and precarious work. Within this broad frame, she uses empirical methodologies and critical theory to understand (1) the impact of digital technologies and emerging legal frameworks on the lives of workers, (2) the co-constitutive influences of law and work on identity, and (3) the role of law and lawyers in solidarity movements.

RUTH DUKES

ruth.dukes@glasgow.ac.uk
University of Glasgow

Ruth Dukes is Professor of Labour Law at the University of Glasgow and Principal Investigator on the European Research Council-funded project Work on Demand: Contracting for Work in a Changing Economy. Ruth is the author of The Labour Constitution: the Enduring Idea of Labour Law (Series: Oxford Monographs on Labour Law, OUP 2014). She is currently writing a book with the sociologist Wolfgang Streeck on Democracy at Work.

DANIEL DUMONT

daniel.dumont@ulb.be Université Libre de Bruxelles (ULB)

Lawyer and philosopher, Daniel Dumont is professor of social security law at the Université Libre de Bruxelles (ULB), in Belgium. He was vice-president of the Belgian Society for Labour and Social Security Law, the Belgian section of the ISLSSL, between 2014 and 2016, along with prof. Filip Dorssemont (president). He conducts research mainly on social protection systems as well as employment and vocational training policies.

ILDA DURRI

KU Leuven

Ilda Durri is a PhD researcher at the University of KU Leuven in Belgium. She has completed a master in European and International Labour Law (LL.M) from the University of Amsterdam and a master in Civil Law (Msc) from the University of Tirana. Prior to starting her PhD, Ilda was working as a project manager and legal assistant in a Brussels-based non-profit organization; blue book trainee at the Directorate General for Employment, Social Affairs and Inclusion of the European Commission; and assistant professor and researcher at the Faculty of Law in Tirana.

ELIZABETH ECHEVERRIA MANRIQUE

echeverriamanrique@ilo.org
International Labour Organization

Elizabeth Echeverría Manrique works at the Labour Law and Reform Unit of the Governance and Tripartism Department at the International Labour Organization. She provides technical advice on labour law to ILO constituents. Previously, she worked at the Research Department researching the linkages between trade and international labour standards, corporate social responsibility and stakeholders' involvement in trade agreements. Before joining the ILO, she practiced and taught labour law in Mexico.

ANJA ELEVELD

anja.eleveld@vu.nl
VU University

Anja Eleveld is an assistant professor at the VU University (Amsterdam). With a background in labour law, political science and cultural anthropology, Anja uses both legal doctrinal and empirical research methods in her research. While her past research has focused on social policy and welfare-to-work, in her new research Anja investigates the meaningfulness of unfree work. Anja teaches European Labour Law (Master of Laws), Sociology (Law in Society Bachelor) and Qualitative Research Methods (Law in Society Bachelor).

MERLE ERIKSON

merle.erikson@ut.ee
University of Tartu

Merle Erikson graduated from the University of Tartu in 1994, the doctor iuris degree was conferred on her in 2001. Since 2011 she has been a professor of labour law at the University of Tartu, Estonia. Her main areas of study and teaching are Estonian labour law, international labour law and the European Union social policy and labour law. She has published over 80 publications and participated in dozens of international and Estonian research projects. Merle Erikson has been involved in drafting Estonian labour laws.

MARIE-CÉCILE ESCANDE-VARNIOL

marie-cecile.escande-varniol@univ-lyon2.fr
Université Lumière Lyon 2

Marie-Cécile ESCANDE-VARNIOL is deputy director of the Institut d'Etudes du Travail de Lyon (IETL), Université Lumière Lyon 2. She teaches Labour Law, International and European social law. She has participated and managed several European research projects since 2005. For 2015 her researches have been oriented to the digital work, especially to platform workers. She has published some articles or books chapters on this matter. Actually, she is a member of the supported European Commission project COGENS about collective bargaining.

EDO ESHET

Sapir Academic College

Dr. Edo Eshet earned his Bachelor's Degree in Law and Economy (LL.B, Summa Cum Laude) from the University of Haifa, and his Master's Degree in Commercial Law (LL.M) from the Tel Aviv University. He completed his PhD thesis at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Faculty of Law. His areas of research and teaching expertise are Labor & Employment Law and Parliamentary Law.

CYNTHIA ESTLUND

ce21@nyu.edu
NYU School of Law

Cynthia Estlund is the Catherine A. Rein Professor at the New York University School of Law. She has written widely on the law and regulation of work, including four books—Automation Anxiety: Why and How to Save Work (Oxford, 2021); A New Deal for China's Workers? (Harvard, 2017); Regoverning the Workplace: From Self-Regulation to Co-Regulation (Yale, 2010); and Working Together: How Workplace Bonds Strengthen a Diverse Democracy (Oxford, 2003)—two co-edited volumes, and over sixty articles, chapters, reviews, and essays. She previously taught at the University of Texas School of Law and Columbia Law School.

STEIN EVJU

stein.evju@jus.uio.no
Department of Private Law, University of Oslo

Professor of Labour Law in the Department of Private Law 2004–2016. President of the National Labour Court 1984–2000; Professor (part time) in the Faculty of Law (Oslo) 1990–2000; Professor at the BI Norwegian Business School 2001–2003. Member of the European Committee of Social Rights 1996–2008 (President 2001–2003); judge ad hoc in the European Court of Human Rights 1999–2003. Founder member, 1981, of the Norwegian Society for Labour Law, Vice President 1981–1985, President 1985–2013. Member since 1981 of the Executive Committee of the ISLSSL; founder member of the LLRN Advisory Board.

JOSEP FARGAS

josep.fargas@upf.edu
Universitat Pompeu Fabra (UPF)

Associate Professor at the UPF-Barcelona. After working in health and financial institutions, he now is a specialist in Social Security Law. He has participated in ten funded legal research projects. The main lines of research have been the non-contributory benefits, the transition between different social protection schemes, and the social protection of civil servants. Last published: "Compatibility of retired pensioners with later labour activities as a self-employed worker"; Revista del Ministerio de Trabajo, no. 144 (2019) ISSN: 2254-3295 Member of the Advisory Board of the LLRN. He has held many university management responsibilities, the highest: Secretary-General of the UPF.

HEINER FECHNER
hfechner@uni-bremen.de University of Bremen

Postdoctoral researcher at University of Bremen. Works in the comparative labour law project "Worlds of Labour", mapping patterns of individual labour law development on a global level from 1880-2020 as part of the collaborative research centre 1342 "Global Dynamics of Social Policy". Current research focus on colonial labour law. PhD thesis on alternative approaches to law and development and collective self-organisation (emancipatory rule of law).

VINCENT FÉVRIER
vincent.fevrier@uliege.be University of Liège

Vincent Février graduated in Law at the University of Liège in 2018. He also received a LLM at the Maastricht University in European Law in 2019. He is currently a PhD candidate at the University of Liège as an aspirant (research fellow) of the F.R.S-F.N.R.S. He is comparing the concept of worker in Belgian Labour Law and in European Economic Law (freedom of establishment, freedom to provide services and Competition Law) in order to determine if the logic of Belgian Labour Law could be threatened by the current and potential influence of this segment of European Law.

MATTHEW FINKIN
University of Illinois College of Law

Matthew Finkin is a Professor of Law at the University of Illinois where he teaches labor law, employee rights, and comparative labor law. In 1997 he assumed Co-General Editorship of the Comparative Labor Law & Policy Journal. He is the recipient of honorary doctorates from the Universities of Padua, Trier, and Athens. He is the author or editor, singly or in collaboration, of eleven books, and a substantial body of periodical writing. He has lectured widely in Europe, Asia and South America. His work has been translated into seven languages.

CATHERINE FISK
cfisk@berkeley.edu
University of California, Berkeley

Catherine Fisk is the Barbara Nachtrieb Armstrong Professor of Law at the University of California, Berkeley. She is the author of a hundred articles and six books, including Working Knowledge: Employee Innovation and the Rise of Corporate Intellectual Property, 1800-1930, and Writing for Hire: Unions, Hollywood, and Madison Avenue, and is currently writing a history of union labor lawyers in the twentieth century USA.

IZABELA FLORCZAK
iflorczak@wpia.uni.lodz.pl
University of Lodz

Assistant Professor at the Department of Labour Law, Institute of Social Security Law and Social Policy, Faculty of Law and Administration, University of Lodz (Poland); Member of the Coordinating Committee of the Polish Scientific Network of Labour Law and Social Security Cooperante; Member of the AI Work Team; Vice Director of the Centre of Migration Studies of the University of Lodz. Scientific interests: basis of employment; migration labour law; atypical employment; new forms of employment.

MARIA HEMÍLIA FONSECA mariahemilia@usp.br
University of Sao Paulo

Associate Professor (Regular Research Project - FAPESP fellowship) and researcher at the University of Sao Paulo, Law School of Ribeirão Preto, in the area of Development, Sustainability, Innovation and Professional Qualification Policies. PhD in Law (CNPq fellowship) from the Catholic University of Sao Paulo, with Sandwich Doctorate at the Universidad de Salamanca (NPq fellowship). Master in Social Relations Law (LL.M) (CAPES fellowship) from the Catholic University of Sao Paulo. Bachelor of Laws (LL.B) from the Federal University of Uberlândia. Visitor Research at Columbia University (USA), Visiting Professor at Universidad de Salamanca (ES) and PUC-Perú (PE).

ANTHONY FORSYTH

anthony.forsyth@rmit.edu.au
RMIT University

Anthony Forsyth is Professor of Workplace Law in the Graduate School of Business and Law, RMIT University, Melbourne, Australia. His research focuses on collective bargaining, trade unions, labour hire and the gig economy. He is Vice-President of the Australian Labour Law Association and chaired the Victorian Government Inquiry into the Labour Hire Industry and Insecure Work (2015-16). He also runs the Labour Law Down Under Blog (<https://labourlawdownunder.com.au/>) and is the author of the forthcoming book: The Future of Unions and Worker Representation: The Digital Picket Line (Hart Publishing).

ROBERTO FRAGALE FILHO

roberto.fragale@gmail.com
Universidade Federal Fluminense

Roberto Fragale Filho is a Labor Judge in Rio de Janeiro (Brazil) and Sociology of Law Professor at Universidade Federal Fluminense. He holds a PhD in Political Science from the Université de Montpellier I (France), and has been a fellow at the Institut d'Études Avancées de Nantes in a long and fruitful collaboration with French academia. As a visiting professor, he has taught in Angola, Macao and Portugal as well as France and the United States.

VALENTINA FRANCA

valentina.franca@fu.uni-lj.si
University of Ljubljana

Valentina Franca, PhD, works as an associate professor and researcher of labour law and social security law at the Faculty of Public Administration, University of Ljubljana, Slovenia. Her main research work is concentrated in labour law, specifically in new forms of work and collective labour relations. She has published several articles and has been involved in different national and international research projects in this field. She is a member of editorial boards and a national expert in the Workers' Participation Network.

EUNICE MARIA FRANCO ZANATTA

eunice.zanatta@tst.jus.br
UDF - Centro Universitário

Master's student in Social and Labor Relations Law at UDF - Centro Universitário, Brasília, DF, Brazil. Participant in the Constitutionalism, Labor Law and Process Research Group at UDF Centro Universitário. Expert in State Law from the Pontifical Catholic University of Goiás - Brasil. Assistant to Minister of the Superior Labor Court, Brazil. <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-4855-4910>

ANDREA ISABEL FRANCONI

a_franconi@hotmail.com
University of Buenos Aires

Andrea Franconi is an Assistant Professor from the University of Buenos Aires, where she graduated with "Honors". She has two LL.M. degrees (Untref and the University of Turin). She is currently a PhD Student at the University of Salamanca. She has integrated to Argentine Delegation for the representation of the Government during the 106 and 108 ILO International Conference, being part of several international negotiations, including the ones that lead to ILO R205; C190, and R206. Nowadays, she works as an external consultant for the ILO. She specializes in human rights, labour law, gender issues, violence, and harassment.

MARIA FRITZ

Lund University

Maria Fritz, researcher in EU Law, Lund University

BO-SHONE FU

boshonefu@gmail.com

Dr. Fu is an assistant professor of labor and employment law. His researches focus on labor and employment law, employment discrimination, comparative labor law.

JUDY FUDGE

McMaster University

Judy Fudge is currently LIUNA Enrico Henry Mancinelli Professor of Global Labour Issues at the School of Labour Studies at McMaster University, Canada. She adopts a socio-legal and feminist materialist approach to the study of work and is currently interested in how the law creates different categories of workers with different rights and entitlements and how legal categories and social relations interact. Currently she is investigating how law categorizes different forms of unfree labour. She has written about precarious work, precarious migrant workers, labour right as human rights and Canadian labour law history.

FEDERICO FUSCO

federico.fusco01@gmail.com
Prince Mohammad bin Fahd University

Dr. Federico Fusco is an Italian national, working as an assistant professor of Law in the College of Law at Prince Mohammad bin Fahd University in Saudi Arabia. He received a Master degree in Law from University of Napoli Federico II, Italy, a postmaster specialization degree in EU Law from the same university and a PhD in Law and Economics from the Scuola Normale Superiore, Italy. Between 2017 and 2019 he worked as a post doc in business law at Lund University in Sweden. Dr. Fusco is the author of various publications on comparative labour law and industrial relations.

SERGIO C. GAMONAL

sergio.gamonal@uai.cl Universidad Adolfo Ibáñez

Professor of Labour Law at the Faculty of Law of Universidad Adolfo Ibáñez, and the director of its Master's in Labour Law and Social Security.

MANUEL ANTONIO GARCIA-MUNOZ ALHAMBRA

antonio.garcia@uni.lu
University of Luxembourg

Post-doctoral Researcher at the University of Luxembourg, I hold a PhD in Law since 2015. I have worked in several Universities where I have combined research with teaching at grade at Master levels on subjects such as labour law, equality policies and European law. My research interests are on labour law and EU and international social law. I have been visiting fellow at the EUI in Florence and worked for the European Centre of Expertise (ECE) in Frankfurt am Main. I have published a book on European collective bargaining at sectoral level and a dozen of articles in scientific journals.

CHARLOTTE GARDEN

Seattle University

Charlotte Garden is a Professor at the Seattle University School of Law, where she teaches labor and employment law as well as constitutional law. Her scholarship focuses on the intersection of work/labor/technology and the Constitution, including the First Amendment rights of workers and labor unions.

GIOVANNI GAUDIO

giovanni.gaudio@unive.it
Ca' Foscari University, Venice

Giovanni read law at Bocconi University, where he received his doctoral degree in legal studies (2019) and taught employment law to law school students (2019). During his PhD (2015-2019), he carried out research at Oxford University and acted as a consultant for the ILO. An article summarizing the results of his PhD thesis have been awarded by the IALLJ with the Marco Biagi Award 2019. From 2019, Giovanni works as Post-doctoral Researcher at Ca' Foscari University on a project funded by the Italian Ministry of Education focusing on the intersections between employment law and technology.

BARBARA GODLEWSKA-BUJOK

bgodlewska@wz.uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

My interest is focused on employment law and social law. I explore issues of violence and conflict at work and their role in shaping employment relation. Much of my work concern employees and the risk of vulnerabilities. My last project was related to the issue of working parents and their work. I also work on some theoretical issues as drafting and establishing rational and effective employment law.

BETH GAZE

egaze@unimelb.edu.au University of Melbourne, Centre for Employment and Labour Relations Law

Beth Gaze is a professor at the University of Melbourne Law School and a member of the Centre for Employment and Labour Relations Law. She teaches and researches in equality and discrimination law, and her most recent book is Equality and Discrimination Law in Australia: An Introduction (2017) co-authored with Belinda Smith of the University of Sydney.

ADRIÁN GOLDIN

adriangoldin@derecho.uba.ar
Universidad de Buenos Aires

He is Emeritus Professor of the University of Buenos Aires and Honorary President of the International Society for Labor and Social Security Law. He has been Visiting Professor at the University of Paris II, at the University of Nantes and visiting lecturer at the College de France. He was a resident researcher at the Institute for Advanced Studies in Nantes. He is a Full Member of the Ibero-American Academy of Labor Law. He is a member of the Scientific Council of the International Labour Review, the Advisory Council of the Comparative Labor Law and Policy Journal and the Scientific

MARTA JOANNA GLOWACKA

mjglowacka@gmail.com
Vienna University of Economics and Business (WU Wien)

Dr Marta J. Glowacka is a Labour Lawyer for an international corporation, looking back on almost 11 years of academia and the following milestones: Assistant professor for Austrian and European Labour Law and Social Security Law at Vienna University of Economics and Business (WU Wien), Labour law Expert to the Federation of Austrian Industries, Advisory Committee on Safety and Health (ACSH), Bilbao Agency (Governing Board), Business Europe Social Affairs Committee, Austrian Supreme Court, Doctorate in Business Law and Master Class CEE Management. Research Interests: new way of work, flexibilization of working time, mobile work, work-life-balance, complementary occupational pensions.

GABRIELLE GOLDING

gabrielle.golding@adelaide.edu.au
The University of Adelaide

Dr Gabrielle Golding is a Lecturer in the Adelaide Law School at the University of Adelaide and a member of the Work and Employment Regulation Research Group. Her research expertise is in employment and contract law, and their intersection. Gabrielle is the South Australian Chapter Coordinator and Early Career Researcher Network Coordinator of the Australian Labour Law Association.

KARINE GONÇALVES CARNEIRO

karine.carneiro@ufop.edu.br
Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto

Graduation at Architecture and Urbanism from EA/UFGM (1996); master's at Sociologia from FAFICH/UFGM (2006); doctorate at Sociology from Puc-Minas (2016) – with a temporary scholarship in the Sociology Department from Universidad Nacional de Colombia (PDSE/Capes). Adjunct Professor in the Architecture and Urbanism Department and in the post-graduation course in Law “Novos Direitos, Novos Sujeito” from Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto. Researcher from the Grupo de Estudos e Pesquisas Socioambientais (GEPISA/UFOP).

AVINASH GOVINDJEE

Avinash.Govindjee@mandela.ac.za
Nelson Mandela University

Professor Avinash Govindjee is Executive Dean of the Faculty of Law, Nelson Mandela University, Port Elizabeth, South Africa. Avinash is Consulting Attorney to Cliffe Dekker Hofmeyr. He served the Commission for Conciliation, Mediation and Arbitration on a part-time basis (for the most part as a Senior Commissioner) for more than a decade. As a consultant to the International Institute for Social Law and Policy (IISLP), he has been involved in a range of labour and social security-related projects for various government departments and agencies in SADC, most recently in relation to the introduction of return-to-work arrangements in SA and Namibia.

EMILY GRABHAM

University of Kent

Emily Grabham is Professor of Law at the University of Kent. Emily is a socio-legal researcher with interests in labour regulation, law and time, and feminist legal theory. She is the author of Brewing Legal Times: Things, Form and the Enactment of Law (University of Toronto Press, 2016), the recipient of a 2020 Philip Leverhulme prize, and has published in journals such as Economy & Society, Social & Legal Studies, Canadian Journal of Law & Society.

ERIK GRAHN

erik.grahn@jur.uu.se
Uppsala University

Erik Grahn is a doctoral candidate at the Department of Law at Uppsala University. He has a background as a litigation lawyer within the Swedish trade union movement. Erik's research concerns the European right to private life, freedom of expression and freedom of religion and those rights impact on employer prerogatives inherent in Swedish employment contracts. Erik has also written books for practicing lawyers on data protection at the workplace and the Swedish and EU regulation of working time.

ELENA GRAMANO

elena.gramano@unibocconi.it Bocconi University

Elena Gramano is Assistant Professor of Labour Law at Bocconi University, Italy. In the past, she worked as post-doc research Fellow at Goethe University of Frankfurt, Institute for Labour and Civil Law, and at the University of Roma Tre. At Bocconi University, she obtained a master degree in Law in 2011 (summa cum laude) and later received her doctoral degree in Labour Law.

PEDRO AUGUSTO GRAVATÁ NICOLI

pedrogravata@gmail.com
Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais

Pedro Nicoli is an Associate Professor at the Law School of the Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais (UFMG). He holds a PhD, Master and Bachelor in Law from UFGM. Visiting scholar at the Gender, Sexuality and Feminist Studies program at Duke University (2019-2020). Was also a visiting researcher at the Collège de France, the ILO and the University of Strasbourg. Coordinates Diverso UFGM – Legal Center for Sexual and Gender Diversity. Currently working in a book project called Labour Law and Dissident Epistemologies, a critique of western regulation of labour through the lenses of non-hegemonic forms of knowledge.

MARTIN GRUBER-RISAK

martin.gruber-risak@univie.ac.at University of Vienna

Martin Gruber-Risak is Associate Professor at the Department of Labour Law and Law of Social Security at the University of Vienna (Austria). He is the co-editor of the HSI Report on European Labour and Social Security Law and the national expert for Austria with the European Centre of Expertise ('ECE') in the field of labour law, employment and labour market policies that advises the European Commission. He has published and edited 25 Books and more than 200 articles and book chapters on Austrian and European Labour Law and Social Security, Industrial Relations and Alternative Dispute Resolution.

PIOTR GRZEBYK

p.grzebyk@wpia.uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

Piotr Grzebyk, dr hab., vice dean for legal research and international collaboration Faculty of Law and Administration University of Warsaw. Member of the Centre for International and European Labour Law Studies (CIELLS). Head of the Polish Research Centre for Law and Economy of China.

TAMÁS GYULAVÁRI

gyulavari.tamas@jak.ppke.hu
Pázmány Péter Catholic University

Tamás Gyulavári is a Professor of Labour Law and Chair of Labour Law Department at Pázmány Péter Catholic University in Budapest. After his graduation in Budapest (1992), he continued his studies at Warwick, Groningen, Aix-Marseille and Lund Universities. After his PhD on EU labour law (2002) and habilitation on economically dependent work (2010), he was a visiting fellow at the European University Institute (2013). He has been a visiting professor at Porto, Bologna, Santiago de Compostela, Vienna, Quito, Jakarta and Loyola Chicago Universities. He has been working in a dozen of EU projects in association with Human European Consultancy, Leeds

TESS HARDY

tess.hardy@unimelb.edu.au
University of Melbourne

Associate Professor Tess Hardy is Co-Director of the Centre for Employment and Labour Relations Law at Melbourne Law School and an Australian Research Council Discovery Early Career Researcher Fellow. Her research spans labour law, contract and competition and consumer regulation. Tess is particularly interested in questions relating to compliance and enforcement, and how the rights of vulnerable workers and firms are regulated in fragmented business networks, such as supply chains and franchise systems. Prior to joining academia, Tess was a private practitioner based in Melbourne, Tokyo and Hong Kong, advising principally in the area of workplace relations.

ANN-CHRISTINE 'ANKIE' HARTZÉN

Lund University

Ann-Christine 'Ankie' Hartzén is a postdoctoral researcher in labour law at the Department of Business Law, Lund University. Her current research is dedicated to the issue of In-work poverty within the framework of the Horizon 2020 project 'Working, Yet Poor'. Apart from in-work poverty Ankie's research interests revolve around labour law, collective bargaining systems and their impact on labour markets, especially for vulnerable persons. In line with this she also holds a deep interest for the European Social Model, not least through her previous work on the European Social Dialogue.

JULIA HEINDL

University of Vienna

Julia Heindl, LL.M. (WU), teaching and research assistant and doctoral candidate, Institute for Labour and Social Security Law at the University of Vienna, Austria.

FRANK HENDRICKX

KU Leuven

Professor Frank Hendrickx (lic. rechten, 1992, KU Leuven; Bacc. Wijsbegeerte, 1993, KU Leuven; LL.M., 1997, LSE; doctor in de rechten, 1999, KU Leuven) is hoogleraar aan de Faculteit Rechtsgeleerdheid van de KU Leuven en houder van een deeltijdse leerstoel Europees arbeidsrecht aan de Universiteit van Tilburg. Frank Hendrickx specialiseert zich in nationaal, Europees en vergelijkend arbeidsrecht. Een bijkomende specialisatie is sportrecht. Hij is editor-in-chief van het European Labour Law Journal en editor van de Codex Arbeidsrecht, de Sportcodex en de Sportrechtspraak (die Keure) alsook editor van de International Encyclopaedia of Sports Law. Hij is secretaris van de Belgische Vereniging voor Arbeidsverhoudingen.

MIJKE HOUWERZIJL

m.s.houwerzijl@tilburguniversity.edu
Tilburg University

Dr. Mijke Houwerzijl has been a full professor of Labour Law at Tilburg University since 2011. From 2010 - 2020, she also held a chair in comparative and European labour law at the University of Groningen.

CHRISTINA HIESSL

hiessler@jura.uni-frankfurt.de Goethe University of Frankfurt

Christina Hießl is a researcher and lecturer at Goethe University of Frankfurt, Invited Professor of Yonsei University of Seoul, member of the European Centre of Expertise in the field of labour law, employment and labour market policies (ECE) and the Korean Society for Social Security Law, and editorial board member of International Journal of Law and Society.

JOHN HOWE

j.howe@unimelb.edu.au
Centre for Employment and Labour Relations Law, University of Melbourne

Professor John Howe is Director of the Melbourne School of Government and the Centre for Employment and Labour Relations Law at the University of Melbourne. John's research interests include labour market policy and regulation, regulatory design, and social procurement. He has written extensively on the role of the state in regulating employment and labour markets, and on the intersection between state-based regulation and corporate governance. John is presently engaged in research concerning regulatory enforcement of minimum employment standards and labour dispute resolution in Australia and the Asia-Pacific region, as well as public procurement and labour standards.

MARIANNE JENUM HOTVEDT

m.j.hotvedt@jus.uio.no
Department of Private Law, University of Oslo

Marianne Jenum Hotvedt is Associate Professor at the Department of Private Law, Faculty of Law, University of Oslo. She is head of the Faculty of Law's forum for research on labour law and the Norwegian Association of Labour Law (Norsk Arbeidsrettslig Forening) and has published extensively on labour law issues.

SARA HUNGLER

hungler@ajk.elte.hu
Centre for Social Sciences, Institute for Legal Studies

Sara Hungler is a member of the public body of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences. She is an assistant professor at ELTE Faculty of Law and a researcher at the Institute for Legal Sciences at Centre for Sciences, Hungary. She pursued her studies at ELTE Faculty of Law and Temple University, Japan Campus. After graduation, she worked for multinational management consulting companies in Warsaw and Tokyo for five years. She then returned to Budapest and started her doctoral studies. She earned her PhD in 2015 at the doctoral school of ELTE.

ALAN HYDE

professoralanhyde@gmail.com
Rutgers University

Distinguished Professor, Rutgers Law School. Author: Working in Silicon Valley (2003), Bodies of Law (1999). Research interests; work relations in high technology and other high-velocity labour markets; intellectual property; immigration.

CRISTINA INVERSI

cristina.inversi@unimi.it
University of Milan

Cristina Inversi is Assegnista di Ricerca at Università Statale di Milano, currently working on a 2 year project on the protection of labour in Agriculture, preventing forms of exploitation and gangmastering. Previously she worked as a Lecturer in Labour Law at Alliances Manchester Business School, University of Manchester. Her research interests are: labour regulation, precarious work, working time regulation, gig-economy regulation and vulnerable workers' protection.

ANDREA IOSSA

andrea.iossa@hkr.se
Lund University / University of Kristianstad

I am a labour lawyer with interdisciplinary background and research interests. My research area covers questions on the legal regulation of industrial relations in a theoretical, comparative and cross-border perspective. Lately I have pursued a research project investigating the legal geography of labour relations in the EU, including the spatio-legal dynamics affecting working conditions of highly mobile workers and logistics workers. Currently, I am involved in a cross-country research European project investigating collective bargaining decentralisation in different sectors.

NABIYLA RISFA IZZATI

nabiylarisfa@ugm.ac.id
University Gadjah Mada

Nabiyla Risfa Izzati is a labour law lecturer in the Faculty of Law, Universitas Gadjah Mada. Nabiyla obtained the Master of Law from Leiden University, Netherlands. Her research interest is in the area of labour law, specifically labour rights, gig economy, comparative study of international labour, and the correlation between gender and work. She is also working as researcher and Vice Director in the Research Center for Law, Gender, and Society, and also a researcher of Fairwork Indonesia Team.

VIDYA ANN JACOB

vidyaj@nls.ac.in National Law School of India University, Bengaluru (India)

Ms. Vidya Ann Jacob is a PhD candidate at the National Law School of India University, Bengaluru (India). Her research focuses on the best practices and legal mechanisms that can be undertaken by the government of India to mitigate and adapt to climate change to render climate justice. She was a Fulbright Doctoral Fellow at Lewis & Clark University, Portland (USA) in 2019-20.

MAGDALENA JANUSZEWSKA

mjanuszevska@mjanuszevska.pl
Kancelaria Magdalena Januszevska

Legal advisor specializing in legal support in the field of labour law, social insurance and social security law. She assists entrepreneurs, private individuals and public entities. Magdalena Januszevska is Wolters Kluwer legal expert. She has authored several books and numerous articles in professional publications such as Rzeczpospolita, Rachunkowość, Dziennik Gazeta Prawna, Gazeta Samorządu i Administracji. Magdalena Januszevska is a graduate of Law at the University of Łódź and of Management and Marketing at the same university. She also completed the International Business and Trade Law Program organized by the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C. and the Jagiellonian University.

JOANNA JASIEWICZ

joanna.jasiewicz@gide.com
GIDE Tokarczuk Grześkowiak Sadownik sp.k.

Magdalena Januszewska is Wolters Kluwer legal expert. She has authored several books and numerous articles in professional publications such as Rzeczpospolita, Rachunkowość, Dziennik Gazeta Prawna, Gazeta Samorządu i Administracji. Magdalena Januszewska is a graduate of Law at the University of Łódź and of Management and Marketing at the same university. She also completed the International Business and Trade Law Program organized by the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C. and the Jagiellonian University. She is a partner of the Polish Scientific Network of Labour Law and Social Security COOPERANTE at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Łódź.

JOSHUA JAVITS

jjavits@icloud.com
National Academy of Arbitrators

Joshua M. Javits is a neutral mediator and arbitrator. He is Vice President of the National Academy of Arbitrators, on the rosters of the AAA, FMCS, NMB, and serves on numerous permanent arbitration panels. He served on four railroad Presidential Emergency Boards. He was Chairman and Member of the National Mediation Board from 1988 to 1993. He was Grievance Chair for the International Monetary Fund from 2007 to 2011. He was the President of the National Association of Railroad Referees (2014-16).

KATARZYNA JAWORSKA

The University of Warmia and Mazury in Olsztyn

Katarzyna Jaworska - Doctor of law, assistant professor at the Department of Labour Law and Social Security at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Warmia and Mazury in Olsztyn, legal adviser at the Regional Chamber of Legal Advisers in Olsztyn, long-term lecturer at the Postgraduate Studies in Labour Law at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Warmia and Mazury in Olsztyn. She conducts courses on labour law and personal data protection in employment and is the author of numerous publications on labour law and social security law.

JEAN JENKINS

Cardiff University

Jean Jenkins is Professor of Employment Relations at Cardiff Business School, and a Co-Director of the Wales Institute for Social and Economic Research Data (Wiserd) at Cardiff University, Wales, UK. Her research focus is on labour conditions in the international garment sector and precarious and low paid work in the UK. Currently, she is part of a Wiserd research team undertaking research into access to remedy for workers and trade unionists in the Indian garment sector and another researching conditions of work and employment in the health and social care sector in Wales.

MARIAN JENNINGS

Marian.Jennings@tudublin.ie
TU Dublin

Academic Lawyer and Researcher, with a specific interest in legal and employee relations aspects of the future of work. I am currently part a PhD supervisor on a CISC Marie Curie ITN project - The legal and ethical implications for the collection and use of data from physiology recording wearables and AI Algorithms for the future workplace.

CAROLINE JOHANSSON

Uppsala University

Caroline Johansson has a Doctor of Laws and holds a position as associate senior lecturer in private law at the Law Faculty, Uppsala University. She defended her doctoral thesis in 2018, in which she examines the relation between Swedish collectively bargained occupational pensions and EU's internal market law. After her dissertation she has continued to focus on issues on the border between occupational and public benefits as well as issues regarding the relation between the Swedish model and EU law.

KAREN JONES

kjones15@Central.UH.EDU
KU Leuven

Karen L. Jones, JD, MA, is the Executive Director, Global and Graduate Programs and adjunct faculty at the University of Houston Law Center. Teaches at Amsterdam University of Applied Sciences and other universities. Has several degrees and certificates, and is a PhD candidate at KU Leuven, Belgium. Previously faculty at Rice University, head of the sport law concentration. Former Program Coordinator, International Sports Law Centre, TMC Asser Instituut in The Hague, where she managed and edited the International Sports Law Journal. More than 17 years in corporations, and has a small consulting business, Mission2Transition LLC. Published author and invited speaker.

EMILIA KALECKA

DLAPiper

Emilia Kalecka specialises in individual and collective labour law. She advises both Polish and foreign companies and individual clients on issues related to concluding, terminating and reviewing employment contracts and civil law contracts, including those of managerial staff. She also advises on the developing and implementing of internal company regulations, including those on mobbing and discrimination.

MINJU KANG

jo.mj Kang@gmail.com
Seoul National University

Minju Kang is a PhD candidate at Seoul National University, where she concurrently serves as a researcher for the center for labor and welfare law. Minju's academic interests lie at the intersection of labor law and international human rights mechanisms. Her doctoral research directs toward transnational shaping of law to address the transnational business and labor issues. She is also starting the LL.M. program at Yale Law School in August 2021.

GÁBOR KÁRTYÁS

kartyas.gabor@jak.ppke.hu
Pázmány Péter Catholic University

Gábor Kártyás works as associate professor at the Labour Law Department of Pázmány Péter Catholic University (Budapest). His main research fields are posted workers in EU law, temporary agency work, other multiparty employment relationships and working time. He has been involved in a number of international research projects, including the ETUI and Eurofound. Besides his academic activities he supports the labour law jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of Hungary (Kúria) as advocate general.

ERI KASAGI

eri.kasagi@u-bordeaux.fr
COMPTRASEC

Eri KASAGI is a research fellow at the CNRS, working at COMPTRASEC (UMR 5114), Bordeaux University. Her research focuses on social protection law, often from a comparative law perspective. She has recently published among others: E. KASAGI (ed.), Solidarity across generations, springer, 2020, E. Kasagi, "Le droit de la protection sociale japonais : son évolution et ses enjeux contemporains", RDSS, July-August, 2020, 627-635

CEREN KASIM

cerenkasim@gmail.com
Georg August University of Goettingen

Ceren Kasim is a lawyer and a researcher. She is currently a doctoral candidate at the University of Göttingen. After receiving her Bachelor's degree from the Faculty of Law at Ankara University, she qualified as an attorney at law. She also received her LL.M. degree from the Humboldt University of Berlin. Among others she was awarded with scholarships from the Hans Böckler Foundation, DAAD and ISLSSL. Her research interests include theory of law, human rights, gender at work and women in the workplace, labour law, comparative labour law, and anti-discrimination law.

TAMMY KATSABIAN

tammy.katsabian@mail.huji.ac.il
Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Tammy Katsabian (PhD) is a Research Associate and Adjunct Professor, at the Faculty of Law at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. Her research deals with labor rights in the digital reality, with a specific focus on questions of privacy, equality, working from home ("telework"), and the gig economy.

EDDIE KEANE

eddie.keane@ul.ie
University of Limerick

Eddie Keane graduated from the University of Limerick in 2003 with an LLB in Law and in 2005 with an LLM in European and Comparative Law. Since 2005, Eddie has worked with UL's School of Law, initially on a temporary basis, before becoming a member of faculty in 2010; Eddie is currently the Director of Teaching and Learning in the School. His primary teaching and research interests are in the areas of commercial and labour law, he has presented at conferences nationally and internationally and his work has been published in leading national and international academic journals.

AISLINN KELLY-LYTH

aislinn.kelly-lyth@law.ox.ac.uk
University of Oxford

Aislinn studied Law at Cambridge and Harvard. Her LLM thesis focussed on the legal implications of discriminatory algorithmic hiring tools, and was subsequently published in the Oxford Journal of Legal Studies. She is now working at the University of Oxford on a project focussed on algorithmic management.

JEFF KENNER

Jeffrey.kenner@nottingham.ac.uk
University of Nottingham

Jeff Kenner is Professor of European Law at the University of Nottingham. He specialises in EU labour law. Recent publications include the new second edition of The EU Charter of Fundamental Rights (Hart 2021) edited with Steve Peers, Tamara Hervey and Angela Ward. Full bio is here:<https://www.nottingham.ac.uk/law/people/jeffrey.kenner>

AVALON KENT

Avalon.Kent@gmail.com
Victoria University

LLM (1st class); LLB; BA(Hons)(Industrial Relations) & PhD candidate, Victoria University, Wellington, New Zealand. Avalon specialises in employment & industrial law, anti-discrimination, pay equity and feminist legal analysis. She has worked in Australian trade unions, private legal practice (on union cases), community law centres representing precarious and vulnerable employees and for the New Zealand Council of Trade Unions as a Legal Officer. She currently works as a Legal Officer at the Public Service Association with a dedicated portion of her work on pay equity.

ANTHONY KERR

anthony.kerr@ucd.ie
UCD Sutherland School of Law

Anthony Kerr is a Senior Counsel at the Bar of Ireland and Associate Professor at the UCD Sutherland School of Law. He is the Ireland representative on the European Labour Law Network, and Executive Committee member of the International Society for Labour and Social Security Law, a national reporter for the International Labour Law Reports and an academic board member of European Employment Law Cases.

ELEANOR KIRK

eleanor.kirk@glasgow.ac.uk
University of Glasgow

Dr Eleanor Kirk is a socio-legal researcher whose work borders the sociologies of work, law and knowledge. Her main research interests include legal consciousness and legalities at work, juridification, access to justice, conflict, resistance and various forms of mobilisation. Her work seeks to uncover how people engage with and invoke law, including but going beyond the more obvious forms of legal participation and litigation. Eleanor publishes both empirical and theoretical work on themes such as grievance formulation, experiences of advice and the employment tribunal process, contesting bogus self-employment, and the legal mobilisation and consciousness of the HR profession. <https://www.gla.ac.uk/schools/law/staff/eleanorkirk/>

ERNESTO KLENGEL

ernesto-klengel@boeckler.de Hugo Sinzheimer Institute for Labour and Social Security Law

December 2020: PhD Thesis: "Collective Agreements in EU Law on the Transfer of Undertakings", supervised by Prof. Dr. Eva Kocher, European University Viadrina, Frankfurt/Oder, Germany; since 2019: Scientific Associate for Labour Law at the Hugo Sinzheimer Institute for Labour and Social Security Law, Frankfurt/Main, Germany; 2015 - 2019: Research assistant at the Chair of Private Business and Labor Law (Prof. Dr. Wolfgang Hamann), University of Duisburg-Essen; 2012 - 2015: legal clerkship in Essen; legal assistance in law firms in Berlin and Essen; 2nd state law examination; 2006 - 2012: Study of law at Humboldt University Berlin, 1st state law examination

SARAH KNOOPS

sarah.knoops@uantwerpen.be
University of Antwerp

Sarah Knoops is a PhD-researcher and a teaching assistant in labour law at the Faculty of Law of the University of Antwerp. Her research focuses on the principle of non-discrimination in the field of occupational pensions for employees.

EVA KOCHER

European University Viadrina

Eva Kocher is professor of civil and labour law at the Law Faculty Law of European University Viadrina, Frankfurt (Oder), Germany. She is the director of the Center for Interdisciplinary Labour Law Research (C*LLaS). Her research focuses on questions of equality, transnational labour law and digitalisation. Her most recent paper "Market organization by digital work platforms. At the interface of labor law and digital law" will soon be published in the Comparative Labor Law and Policy Journal. With Bernhard Emunds, she leads a research project on Live-in care work (so-called 24-hour care), which focusses on the "pioneers" among intermediating agencies

KEVIN KOLBEN

kkolben@business.rutgers.edu
Rutgers Business School

Kevin Kolben is associate professor at Rutgers Business School in the USA. His research focuses on labor in global supply chains, international economic law, and regulatory theory. He often works with governments and the ILO on labor and trade issues, and he was recently named a panelist by the U.S. government for the USMCA's freedom of association rapid response mechanism.

MARTA KOŁACZ

martakatarzyna.kolacz@uantwerpen.be University of Antwerp/Erasmus University Rotterdam

PhD researcher in law at the University of Antwerp (Belgium) and Erasmus University Rotterdam (The Netherlands). Research interests: carriage contracts, cargo optimization, sustainable shipping and logistics.

ARISTEA KOUKIADAKI

aristea.koukiadaki@manchester.ac.uk
The University of Manchester

Aristea Koukiadaki is senior lecturer in Employment Law at the University of Manchester. Her research interests are in comparative labour law and industrial relations, empirical legal studies and EU labour law and social policy. Her current projects include a Trade Union Rights' Expert group (ETUI)-led project on effective enforcement of EU labour law and a project on social clauses in public procurement. Her work has been funded by a variety of organisations, including the Leverhulme Trust, the European Commission and the International Federation of Professional Footballers.

ERIKA KOVACS

Vienna University of Economics and Business

Erika Kovács is Assistant Professor for Labour and Social Security Law at the Vienna University of Economics and Business in Vienna (tenure-track position). She has previously worked at the Institute for Labour Law and Industrial Relations in the EU at the University of Trier, Germany (2004 – 2008) and at the University of Pécs, Hungary (2008 – 2012). She has a diploma in law from the University of Pécs and holds a doctoral degree in law from the University of Trier.

MARTA KOZAK-MAŚNICKA

m.kozak@wpia.uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

Marta Kozak-Maśnicka – PhD candidate in the Faculty of Law and Administration at the University of Warsaw (Labour Law and Social Security Department), researcher at the Center for Research on the Law of Eastern Europe and Central Asia. Her thesis focuses on the legal situation of the whistleblower in Polish labour law and whistleblower's protection measures.

RÜDIGER KRAUSE

Lehrstuhl.Krause@jura.uni-goettingen.de Georg-August-University Göttingen

Rüdiger Krause is Professor for Civil Law and Labour Law and Director of the Institute for Labour Law, Georg-August-University Göttingen, Germany. He has written numerous books, articles and comments mainly on German and European Labour Law. He is author of the report for the 71. German Lawyers Conference on the digitization of work (2016) and of two other reports for German Ministries of Labour at federal level on employee data protection (2017) and at state level on public procurement (2019). He is co-editor of the German Journal "Soziales Recht" and speaker of the German Labour Law Professor Association.

JEDIDIAH KRONCKE

jkroncke@hku.hk
The University of Hong Kong

Dr. Jedidiah Kroncke is an associate professor of law at the University of Hong Kong. Trained as an anthropologist and as a lawyer, his scholarship uses comparative and historical methods to explore issues related to alternative labor and property institutions. His past projects include work on cooperative landholding, the role of labor and employment law in development, employee owned corporations, comparative union democracy, and the role of property and labor rights in democratization. New projects include republican conceptions of the corporation, versions of economic democracy in anti-authoritarian legal reform, and the democratic implications of US-China economic integration.

MONIKA KRZYSZKOWSKA-DĄBROWSKA

monika.krzyzskowska-dabrowska@linklaters.com
Linklaters

Monika Krzyzskowska-Dąbrowska is a legal adviser specialising in labour law with over 18 years of experience including, among others, preparing and negotiating labour law documents, advising on hiring, especially managerial staff, individual and group dismissals, posting of workers, all current employment issues as well as a wide range of restructuring. She is the author of numerous publications, including a commentary to the Labour Code.

MAGDALENA KUBA
mkuba@wpia.uni.lodz.pl
University of Łódź

PhD in Law, Assistant Professor in the Department of Labor Law, Faculty of Law and Administration, University of Łódź, and in the Division of Labor Law, College of Law, Kozminski University; author of publications in the field of individual labor law and personal data protection

VALERIE KÜHN
University of Hamburg

PhD student; topic: telework from home in legal comparison; University of Hamburg, Germany.

MIRIAM KULLMANN
WU Vienna University of Economics and Business

Miriam is currently a visiting scholar at Harvard University's Weatherhead Center for International Affairs and member of the European Committee of Social Rights. Her main research focuses on algorithmic discrimination and the role of labour law on the value of work.

ATTILA KUN
kun.attila@kre.hu
Károli Gáspár University of the Reformed Church in Hungary (KRE) & National University of Public Service (NKE)

Attila Kun is a Professor in labour law and the Head of the Department of Labour Law and Social Security at the Károli Gáspár University of the Reformed Church in Hungary (KRE), Faculty of Law, Hungary (Budapest). He is also a part-time scholar at the National University of Public Service (NKE), Department of Human Resources. He is a member of the MTA (Hungarian Academy of Sciences) - PTE Research Group of Comparative and European Employment Policy and Labour Law. He is the national coordinator and member of the Hungarian Labour Advisory and Dispute Settlement Service (MTVSZ).

FEMKE LAAGLAND
f.laagland@jur.ru.nl
Radboud University

After her studies, Femke Laagland worked as a lawyer at the employment law Department of a law firm. Femke made a change-over to the Radboud University in 2009, where she was appointed as a lecturer/phd-student. She obtained her phd in 2013. In January 2018 she was appointed as professor of (European) Labour Law. The current research conducted by Femke Laagland focuses on cross border situations and the way European law controls national employment relationships. Next to her job as a professor, Femke is a crown appointed member of the Social Economic Council of the Netherlands.

AURIANE LAMINE
auriane.lamine@uclouvain.be Université Catholique de Louvain

Auriane Lamine is a legal scholar who specializes in labour law (PhD Louvain 2016, LLM Harvard 2013). She holds a master in philosophy (MA Louvain 2014). She is currently an Associate Professor of law at the Université catholique de Louvain (Belgium) where she teaches International, European and Belgian labour law. She is a member of the CRIDES research center (Centre de recherches entreprise, droit et société, UCLouvain) and an associate fellow of the CERCRID (Université Jean Monnet, Saint-Etienne). Her recent work focuses on multinational firms' accountability, social protections for non-standard workers, democratic experimentalism in social law, and transnational company agreements.

INGRID LANDAU

ingrid.landau@monash.edu
Monash Business School, Monash University

Ingrid Landau is a Lecturer in the Department of Business Law and Taxation at Monash Business School, and a member of the Labour, Equality and Human Rights (LEAH) Research Group. She researches and teaches in the areas of comparative and transnational labour regulation, and business and human rights. Ingrid has worked as principal researcher on projects commissioned by the International Labour Organisation and the Australian Fair Work Commission. Prior to joining Monash University, she worked in the legal department of the Australian Council of Trade Unions.

BRIAN LANGILLE

brian.langille@utoronto.ca
Univeristy of Toronto

Brian Langille is Professor of Law at the University of Toronto Law School. In recent work he seeks to deploy the Capability Approach to articulate a new “constituting narrative” for labour law – see, for example, The Capability Approach to Labour Law (Langille, ed. OUP, 2019). Professor Langille has been a Fellow of the European University Institute (Florence), The Institute for Advanced Studies (Nantes), the International Institute for Labour Studies (Geneva), and a Visiting Professor at Melbourne Law School, Hebrew University, University of Padova, University Pompeu Fabra (Barcelona), The Centre for Transnational Legal Studies (London), and Dalhousie University (Canada).

MARTA LASEK-MARKEY

mlasek@tcd.ie
Trinity College Dublin (Republic of Ireland)

Marta Lasek-Markey (LL.M. Dub) is a doctoral researcher in EU Labour Law at Trinity College Dublin. Her PhD project, funded by the Irish Research Council and supervised by Prof. Mark Bell, is a sociolegal study on posted workers in the EU. It uses data obtained from qualitative interviews with a view to identifying those elements of the Posted Workers Directive framework - legal, enforcement-related and sociological – which may predispose posted workers to precarity. Marta previously read law and journalism at the University of Warsaw and had a full-time career in journalism in Poland.

MONIKA LATOS-MIŁKOWSKA

monikalatos@poczta.fm
Akademia Leona Koźmińskiego

Dr. hab. Monika Latos-Miłkowska, PhD (ORCID: 000-0001-6851-8971), Professor at Kozminski University, Head of the Department of Labour Law at the Faculty of Law, Kozminski University. Previously a long-time research and teaching staff member of the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Warsaw. Author of several dozen publications in the field of labour law, including the monograph entitled Protection of the Employer’s Interest. Co-author of the commentary to the Labour Code edited by Prof. Ludwik Florek, author of the commentary to the act on the protection of employees’ claims in the case of the employer’s insolvency. Co-author of several volumes of System of Labour Law edited by Prof. K.W. Baran. Her scientific interests include the issues of collective labour law, protection of employee claims in the case of employer’s insolvency, protection of the permanence of employment relationship and rights related to parenthood.

SYLVAINÉ LAULOM

sylvaine.laulom@gmail.com
Cour de cassation, Université Lyon 2

Sylvaine Laulom (born 1967) is Advocate General in the Social Chamber of Cour de Cassation in France. Before she came into office at the Court in early 2019, she held a position as Professor of Private Law at Université Lumière Lyon II. There, she was the Director of the cross disciplinary Institut d’Études du Travail de Lyon (IETL) and was part of the research team of the multidisciplinary Centre de Recherches Critiques sur le Droit (CERCRID). Laulom was awarded her PhD 1996 at the European University Institute in Florence.

AGNIESZKA LECHMAN-FILIPIAK

Agnieszka.Lechman-Filipiak@dlapiper.com
DLA Piper

Agnieszka Lechman-Filipiak heads the Warsaw Employment department and has more than 20 years of experience in advising on employment law and corporate law. She specialises in issues related to employment regulations, including social packages, group redundancies, transfers of undertakings to new employers, and collective disputes. Agnieszka is recommended by the leading global law directories as Chambers Europe and The Legal 500 EMEA in employment in Poland.

DESIREE LECLERCQ

leclercq@cornell.edu
Cornell University

Prof LeClercq is the Proskauer Employment and Labor Law Assistant Professor at Cornell University's School of Industrial and Labor Relations in Ithaca, New York, where she teaches international labor law, U.S. labor law, and employment law. Before joining the ILR School, LeClercq was the Director for Labor Affairs at USTR, where she negotiated and enforced labor-rights commitments in U.S. trade instruments. Prior to joining USTR in 2016, LeClercq was a legal officer for the ILO in Geneva, Switzerland, where she specialized in maritime labor law and trade agreements.

IDA DAHEA LEE

dahea.lee@gmail.com
Seoul National University, School of Law
SNU Center for Labor & Welfare Law

I teach labour law in SNU school of law as a lecturer, and am also a research fellow in SNU center for labor & welfare law. Prior to teaching, I obtained PhD in SNU and was a doctoral exchange student at Harvard Law School. My doctoral dissertation was on citizenship theory and migrant workers; my current research and writing involves new questions of labour law in the changing world of work, such as Covid-19 and labour law, artificial intelligence and digital platform work, basic income discourse, and care workers situated in global inequality.

CSILLA LEHOCZKY KOLLONAY

kollonay@ceu.edu
Central European University

Dr. habil Csilla Kollonay Lehoczky, Professor Emerita of the Central European University in Budapest. Areas of teaching and research: labour law, European labour law, social rights, gender and law, equal opportunities. From 1997 at the CEU, earlier at the Eötvös Loránd University Faculty of Law in Budapest. 2001-2012 member of the supervisory body (ECSR) of the European Social Charter, 2004-2011 member of the EU Equality Legal Experts' Network. Visiting professor at several European and American universities (i.a. Stanford, Frankfurt am Main, Graz). Member of European and academic advisory bodies, and of the Transnational Trade Union Rights (TTUR) group.

SIMONE LEIBER

simone.leiber@uni-due.de University of Duisburg-Essen

Simone Leiber is professor for social policy at the University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany. Her research interests are: comparative welfare state reform with a particular focus on elder care policies. At the LLRN conference she presents her recent work on live-in migrant care work in Germany.

MAGDALENA LENGLINGER

University of Vienna

Mag. Magdalena Lenglinger is a teaching and research assistant and doctoral candidate at the chair of Univ.-Prof. Dr. Elisabeth Brameshuber, Institute for Labour and Social Security Law at the University of Vienna, Austria.

LOIC LEROUGE

loic.lerouge@u-bordeaux.fr
COMPTRASEC

Pr. Loic Lerouge is a leading researcher on occupational health issues. His research consists in study how the law tackles these issues under a comparative labour and social security law approach. In order to enrich his research, he initiates a dialogue with other disciplines and stakeholders. Head of the "Workers and Persons Mental and Physical Health" thematic of the COMPTRASEC Research centre (CNRS-University of Bordeaux), he is the author of many published by prestigious national and international peer publishers and gave many lectures (invited or selected by a peer-reviewed committee) all around the world in English, Spanish and French.

PIERA LOI

loip@unica.it
University of Cagliari

Director of the Master in Labour law and Industrial Relations in Private and public sector National Expert in international research projects financed by the EU Commission : currently 2018-2021 Collective Bargaining and the Gig Economy. New Perspectives, coordinated by Prof. José Maria Miranda Boto and Prof. Elisabeth Brumshuber. 2018-2021 Principal Investigator of the regional research group financed by the Region of Sardinia (Italy)- on Digital platforms and employment relationships: risk and opportunities.

JULIA LOPEZ

Pompeu Fabra University

Julia Lopez is Professor of Labor Law and Social Security Law at the Pompeu Fabra University in Barcelona and Senior Researcher in the Research Group for Labor and Social Security Law, GRETTISS. She is the author of books and articles on comparative, European Union, and Spanish labor law. Much of her work deals with multilevel legal dynamics and with interactions between protest, democratic governance and legal institutions. Among her most recent publications are: Julia López (ed.) Collective Bargaining and Collective Action. Labour Agency and Governance in the 21st Century? 1ed . (2019) Hart Publishing, (2019) and with Alexandre de le Court (2020) When the Corporate Veil is Lifted: Synergies of Public Labour Institutions and Platform Workers.

CLAUDIA LOTITO

claudia.lotito@univr.it
University of Verona

Dr. Claudia Lotito is a postdoctoral researcher for the FARm project at the Section of Psychiatry and Clinical Psychology, Department of Neuroscience, Biomedicine and Movement Sciences, University of Verona and at WHO Collaborating Centre for Research and Training in Mental Health in Verona. Dr. Lotito is a clinical psychologist, psychotherapist and attended her PhD in Social Sciences at the University of Padua.

AGATA LUDERA-RUSZEL

aruszel@ur.edu.pl
University of Rzeszow

An assistant professor at the Institute of Legal Sciences on the University of Rzeszów. She is the recipient of the Scholarship of the Minister of Science and Higher Education for Outstanding Young Researchers. She has also received the Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst (DAAD) twice. She is a member of the Council of Young Researchers at the University of Rzeszów. She is the author of a number of scientific articles concerning individual labor law. She has worked as a reviewer for Polish and international scientific journals.

LILACH LURIE

lilachlurie@tauex.tau.ac.il
Tel-Aviv University

Dr. Lilach Lurie is a senior lecturer (with tenure) at Tel-Aviv University, Department of Labor Studies. She is also a faculty member at the Herzeg Institute on Aging at Tel-Aviv University. Her research spans the fields of employment law, labor law, pension and retirement, industrial relations and social security. Lurie has a PhD in Law from Tel-Aviv University. She was a visiting researcher at Cornell University, Georgetown University and Brandeis University. Lurie's articles were published in top international journals within her field. She received numerous grants and prizes, including a research grant from the Israel Science Foundation (2017-2021).

NIKITA LYUTOV

nlioutov@mail.ru
Kutafin Moscow State Law University

Nikita L. Lyutov, Dr. Jur., Prof., head of Department of Labour and Social Security Law at Kutafin Moscow State Law University, MSAL (Russia); Extraordinary Professor in School of Industrial Psychology and Human Resource management at the Potchefstroom Campus of the North-West University (Republic of South Africa). The main academic activity of prof. Lyutov includes the international labour law, the compliance of Russian labour law norms with international labour standards, regional integration within the labour law field, transformation of employment relations and the regulation of the new forms of employment.

ANA VIRGINIA M GOMES

avmgomes@gmail.com
Universidade de Fortaleza

Ana Virginia Moreira Gomes is a Labour Law Professor at the Faculty of Law of University of Fortaleza, Brazil. Her work focuses on International Labour Law, specifically on the following subjects: fundamental rights, ILO, regulation of informal work and protection of vulnerable workers, in special domestic work. She is co-author of the book "Waste pickers and homeless people: (in) visibility and citizenship on the streets of Fortaleza" (Available at: <<http://nedts.unifor.br/>>). She coordinates the Center for Studies in Labor Law and Social Security at the University of Fortaleza.

SILVIA MAGAGNOLI

Università degli Studi di Milano

I have graduated cum laude in law studies with a thesis in labour law focused on professionalism and education right of the employee. I completed an internship at the court of Milan within the labour law department. In November I have started a PhD in Labour law. I am also collaborating with the legal department of the national social security institute.

PETRA MAHY

petra.mahy@monash.edu
Monash University

Petra Mahy is a Senior Lecturer at Monash University, Australia. She is both a lawyer and anthropologist and her research often draws on socio-legal and regulatory approaches. Her research tends to focus on Southeast Asia, especially Indonesia.

HENRIETTE MALMSTRÖM

henriette.malmstrom@har.lu.se
Lund University

I am a lawyer (LL.M) and doctoral student at the Department of Business law, School of Economics and Management, Lund University. My research project is focusing on the the employer's duty of loyalty under the employment contract (supervisors: Annamaria Westregård and Andreas Inghammar). I have previous work experience within law from working at a business law firm where I was specialized on labour law and also from working as a law clerk in court.

DAVID MANGAN

Maynooth University

David is based in Ireland at Maynooth University. He is also an Adjunct Professor at the Catholic University Lyon and at Osgoode Hall Law School (Continuing Professional Development) . He is a member of the editorial board, and a European Developments editor, of the European Labour Law Journal. He is also a member of the Italian Labour Law e-Journal's editorial board. He contributes to Wolters Kluwer's Regulating for Globalisation blog. Prior to moving to Ireland, David was Associate Professor and Associate Dean (International) in a UK university.

VIRGINIA MANTOUVALOU

v.mantouvalou@ucl.ac.uk
University College London

Virginia Mantouvalou is Professor of Human Rights and Labour Law at University College London (UCL), Faculty of Laws. Her work has appeared in journals such as the Modern Law Review, the Journal of Law and Society and Theoretical Inquiries in Law. Her most recent co-edited book is Philosophical Foundations of Labour Law (with H Collins and G Lester as co-editors, OUP 2018). She is on the editorial committee of the Modern Law Review, Current Legal Problems and the Stanford Studies in Human Rights.

MATTEO MANTOVANI

matteo.mantovani@univr.it
University of Verona

I am a postdoctoral researcher in the Department of Computer Science of the University of Verona. My main research area is temporal data-mining and in this current project I am working to include temporal relations and other statistics to minimize the risks of illegal recruitment.

EMILIANO MARAN

Goethe University Frankfurt

Research assistant at Goethe University Frankfurt

STEFANIA MARASSI

S.Marassi@hhs.nl
The Hague University of Applied Sciences

Stefania Marassi is a Senior Lecturer in Labour Law at The Hague University of Applied Sciences (The Netherlands). She currently conducts research on the use of new technologies (e.g. wearables) to prevent occupational health and safety risks and promoting well-being at work and the intersection with European data protection law. Her research interest is also on transnational collective bargaining.

ANNA MAROŃ

anna_maron@interia.pl
Uniwersytet Rzeszowski

Anna Maroń - a lawyer, a teaching assistant at the University of Rzeszów, labour law specialist, a LawPhD student, a local government official.

OLGA MARTIN-ORTEGA

o.martin-ortega@gre.ac.uk
University of Greenwich

Olga Martin-Ortega is Professor of International Law at the School of Law, University of Greenwich. She leads the Business Human Rights and the Environment Research Group. Olga is a member of the Board of Trustees of Electronics Watch, the Corporate Justice Coalition UK and member of the Board of Directors of the London Universities Purchasing Consortium.

CLAIRE MARZO

claire.marzo@u-pec.fr
University Paris East UPEC

Claire Marzo is a law lecturer in Paris East (UPEC) and in London (Dauphine London). She is specialised in European Union Social law. She studied in Paris and in Oxford, did her PhD in the European University Institute in Florence and she has taught and researched both in France and in the UK since. She is interested in European, international and comparative social and labour law. She is the coordinator of an ANR (French research agency) project entitled CEPASSOC which studies platform workers' social protection from an international and interdisciplinary perspective.

TOMMASO MASERATI

tommaso.maserati@unimi.it
Università degli Studi di Milano

Graduated in Law with a thesis in labour law dedicated to the evolution of employers' powers within digitalised workplaces. Currently PhD student at the University of Milan. His main research topics concern remote work, analysed from a national, comparative and international perspective, as well as the processes of datafication and taskification of work performance and their impact on employees' obligations and responsibilities.

VONGAI MASOCHA

International Labour Organization

Vongai Masocha is a Technical Officer at the International Labour Organization. She specializes in labour law, industrial relations and sustainable development in global supply chains.

ANNICK MASSELOT

annick.masselot@canterbury.ac.nz
University of Canterbury

Annick Masselot is a Professor of Law at the University of Canterbury, New Zealand. Her research interests focuses on gender equality and employment law in a comparative context. Annick is the author of Reconciling Work and Family Life in EU Law and Policy (Palgrave Macmillan, 2010) and Caring responsibility in EU law and policy: who cares? (Routledge, 2020) both with E. Caracciolo di Torella. She is co-editor of the Journal of Common Market Studies.

ALFREDO MASSI

alfredomassi121@gmail.com
Regional Labor Court of Minas Gerais

Master of Laws from UFMG (Federal University of Minas Gerais). Labor Judge of Regional Labor Court of Minas Gerais. Obtained his law degree in 2008 and Specialization in Labor Law in 2009. Acted as Public Defender of Minas Gerais in 2013. Has research experience in Labor Law and social dimension of Mercosur.

PAULINA MATYJAS-ŁYSAKOWSKA

matyjas.lysakowska@gmail.com
Jan Kochanowski University

Academic teacher, assistant professor at the Jan Kochanowski University in Kielce, Faculty of Law and Social Sciences. Author of publications in the field of labor law. Advocate, lecturer at trainings in the field of labor law and social insurance.

DÁIRE MCCORMACK-GEORGE dairemccormackgeorge@courts.ie
Courts Service of Ireland

Dr Dáire McCormack-George is a graduate of the universities of Dublin and Oxford. During his doctoral studies in Dublin, he also held visiting research positions at University College London and KU Leuven. His specialism in labour law lies primarily in the regulation of labour migration but he also has a keen interest in the theoretical foundations of labour law. His research has featured in leading Irish and European law journals. He is currently a clerk at the Courts Service of Ireland, the statutory body which serves the independent Irish judiciary.

SHAE MCCRYSTAL

The University of Sydney

Shae McCrystal is Professor of Labour Law and Deputy Head of School and Dean at Sydney Law School, University of Sydney. Shae has published widely in Australia and internationally on the right to strike, and on the intersection between competition law and labour law. Her most recent monograph, co-authored with Breen Creighton, Catrina Denvir, Richard Johnstone and Alice Orchiston is 'Strike Ballots, Democracy and Law', published in 2020 by Oxford University Press.

PASCAL MCDUGALL

Harvard Law School

Pascal McDougall is an SJD Candidate at Harvard Law School and an adjunct lecturer at Sciences Po, Paris.

EWAN MCGAUGHEY
ewan.mcgaughey@kcl.ac.uk
King's College, London

Dr Ewan McGaughey (@ewanmcg) is a Reader in Law at King's College, London, a research associate at the Centre for Business Research, University of Cambridge, and advocate for the Free Representation Unit. He specialises in labour law, pensions, corporate governance, enterprise law, and human rights. He is particularly interested in the next suffrage movement, that is extending democracy to the economy, and protecting the right of workers to vote for boardrooms, in their capital, and for members of the public to codetermine the management of public services.

LIAM MCHUGH-RUSSELL
liam.mchugh-russell@dal.ca

Schulich School of Law, Dalhousie University

Liam McHugh-Russell is Assistant Professor at Schulich School of Law, Dalhousie University. He holds a doctorate from the European University Institute, a Master of Laws from the Institute for Comparative Law, McGill University, and a Juris Doctor from the University of Toronto. He has been a lawyer member of the Ontario bar since 2009. His professional experience includes many years working part-time at the International Labour Organisation in Geneva, Switzerland, and practice with a union-side labour law firm. He is also an associate member of the Labour Law and Development Research Laboratory and the International Economic Law Collective.

JACK MEAKIN
jack.meakin@bristol.ac.uk
University of Bristol

I am an ESRC Postdoctoral Fellow 2020/21 at the School of Law, University of Bristol. The central aim of my research is to comprehend how labour movements engage strategically with law as a means to realise their political demands. I investigate the characteristics of effective strategic engagements with legal instruments, from concrete legislative provisions to more abstract constitutional values and evaluate the types of legal strategies that can facilitate labour's democratic ambitions.

AMAURY MECHELYNCK
amaury.mechelynck@ulb.be Université Libre de Bruxelles

Amaury Mechelynck is a doctoral researcher in social law at ULB since October 2019 (FNRS-FRESH grant). Previously, he was a lawyer specialised in social law at the Brussels bar for five years (2014-2019). He was also an assistant professor at UCL (2013-2015) and ULB (2015-2018). He then became a lecturer at ULB during the 2018-2019 academic year. His research covers various topics in both social security law and labour law. His thesis project (Provisional title: "Work on the margins of labour law: weakening or reconfiguration of workers' protections?") focuses on atypical forms of work.

JACQUELINE MEREDITH
University of Melbourne

Jacqueline Meredith is a PhD Candidate in the Centre for Employment and Labour Relations Law, Melbourne Law School at the University of Melbourne Australia.

GÁBOR MÉLYPATAKI
jogmega@uni-miskolc.hu
University of Miskolc

I work at Faculty of Law University of Miskolc, Hungary. My research fields are the the civil service law, social innovationa and labour law, and labour law digitalisation. I am currently researching the connection between the labour law and the new trends and technologies in the mirror of the social innovation. I am co-president of the Subcommittee of Labour Relation at Hungarian Academy of Science. He is working as mediator at Labor Advisory and Dispute Resolution Service and Chamber of Commerce and Industry of Borsod-Abaúj-Zemplén County.

BRUNO MESTRE
Portugal Court of Justice

Bruno Mestre is judge (Juiz de Direito) in Portugal. He did his PhD in the European University Institute of Florence and has since worked on European and comparative labour and social law. He is the author of 'The Metamorphoses of Legal Subordination' (As Metamorfoses Da Subordinação Jurídica: Algumas Reflexões, Prontuário De Direito Do Trabalho, li, 2020: 185-223).

EMANUELE MENEGATTI
University of Bologna

Full Professor of Labour Law and Dean of the School of Economics and Management at the University of Bologna, where he is also a member of the Board of the PhD program in European Law. He is Adjunct Professor at Curtin University Law School (Perth, Australia). He has been visiting professors at several Universities. His main fields of specialization are Comparative and EU Labour Law. His main research interests include minimum wage regulation, new forms of work in the gig/sharing/on-demand economy, social action of the European Union. Co-editor of the book The sources of labour law.

MAŁGORZATA MĘDRALA
m.medrala@gmail.com
Cracow University of Economics

Małgorzata Mędrala, PhD academic teacher at Cracow University of Economics (CUE), Department of Public Economic Law and Labour Law; researcher specializing in employment law, social policy, procedure in labour matters and personal data protection; member of ILERA; supporting member of the European Labour Mobility Institute (ELMI); attorney-at-law; employment and data protection lawyer with large practical experience;

AGATA MIĘTEK

amietek@kozminski.edu.pl
Kozminski University

Agata is a Doctor of Juridical Science, an advocate, and an expert in labour law. She has been supporting for over 10 years Polish and international entrepreneurs in the area of individual and collective labour law, immigration law, and in social insurance. Since March 2020 she has combined working as an advocate with the role of an Assistant Professor in the Labour Law Department at Kozminski University. Agata is an author of publications on labour law, including the monograph "Freedom of contracts and its restrictions in shaping the content of employment relationships" published in Polish in 2019 by C.H. Beck.

LIVIA MIRAGLIA

liviamiraglia@gmail.com
UFMG

Labor law professor at Federal University of Minas Gerais (UFMG). PHD in Labor Law. Coordinator of the Human Trafficking Clinic at UFMG. Researcher. Lawyer. Author of books and articles.

JOSE MARIA MIRANDA BOTO

josemaria.miranda@usc.es
Universidad de Santiago de Compostela

José María Miranda Boto. PhD. in Law, Associate Professor in Labour Law, University of Santiago de Compostela (Spain). Author of more than 150 papers on Spanish and European Labour Law. Member of several funded research projects on Spanish and European Labour Law. Manager of the COGENS Project on Gig-Economy and Collective Bargaining (VS/2019/0084), funded by the European Commission. Secretary-General of the Spanish Association of Labour and Social Security Law. Former Coordinator of the European Labour Law Young Scholars' Section of the ISLSSL. Author of two monographies about Law in Tolkien.

MOTI (MORDEHAI) MIRONI

mmironi@law.haifa.ac.il
Haifa University Faculty of Law

Moti (Mordehai) Mironi is Professor of Law (Emeritus), Faculty of Law, Haifa University and IDC Faculty of Law, Israel. Formerly he was a faculty member at Tel Aviv University and Visiting Professor at Cornell, USC Law School, the University of Alberta and Humboldt University as well as Visiting Researcher at the Alexander von Humboldt Institute for Internet and Society (Berlin). Prof. Mironi specializes in labour and employment law, ADR, negotiation, mediation and arbitration. His research interests include ADR and labour employment law, in general, and strikes and labour dispute resolution, in particular. Prof. Mironi practices as a labour mediator and arbitrator.

ANGELIKI MORAITI

alinamoraiti@gmail.com
European Commission

Angeliki Moraiti is currently working with the European Commission's Directorate-General for Employment, Social Affairs and Inclusion on the Commission's legislative initiative for improving the working conditions in platform work. She is a co-author of the International Labour Organisation's World Employment and Social Outlook 2021 report "The role of digital labour platforms in transforming the world of work". She holds an LLM in European law from University College London and her work focuses on the platform economy and the future of work in the European Union and beyond.

JOHANN MULDER

johann.mulder@jus.uio.no
Department of Private Law, The Faculty of Law
University of Oslo

Johann Mulder is law professor at the Department of Private Law, Faculty of Law, University of Oslo, Norway. He is head of the Labour Law Research Group and managing the programme Building Labour Law (Arfa). Besides, he is head of subject for labour law. His research comprises employment relationship in the event of business transfers, issues regarding collective agreement and employee involvement.

CLAIRE MUMME

University of Windsor

Claire Mummé (MA (Hist), LLB, LLM, PhD) is an Associate Professor of Law at the University of Windsor, where she teaches and researches the regulation of waged employment. Using political economic and critical historical research methods, her work focuses on work law's role in creating, supporting and preventing various forms of socioeconomic inequality. Current projects focus on the commodification of labour power and affective labour, the rise of public sector labour law in Canada, and the imbrication of various work law regimes. You can find her published work at the University of Windsor Scholarship Repository.

RAFAEL MUNAGORRI

rafael.munagorri@univ-nantes.fr
University of Nantes

Rafael E. de Munagorri is professor of law at the University of Nantes and in charge of the degree of Master in Labour Law. He studied labour law and jurisprudence at the University of Paris X Nanterre. He is member of international networks in theory of law and of labour law and has co-organised from Nantes in 2020 the third world congress of the network Cielo Laboral. His current research interests are in legal thought, domestic workers and transnational labour law.

GUY MUNDLAK

mundlakguy@gmail.com
Tel-Aviv University

Guy Mundlak is a prof of labour law and industrial relations at Tel-Aviv University - Faculty of Law & Department of Labour Studies. Recent publication - Organizing Matters: Two Logics of Trade Union Representation (ILO, Elgar, 2020) available at https://www.ilo.org/global/publications/books/WCMS_741934/lang--en/index.htm. Works on collective labour law, organizational compliance with employment standards, international labour law and gender aspects of labour law.

NATALIE MUNKHOLM

nvm@law.au.dk
Aarhus University

Specialized in labour and employment law. She is the National Expert for Denmark to the European Labour Law Network (ELLN), the National Expert for Denmark (Gender Equality) to the European Equality Law Network (EELN), the Danish expert to the Restatement of Labour Law in Europe project, the representative of Denmark to the International Society of Labour and Social Security Law (ISLSSL), appointed member of the Danish Board of Equal Treatment by the Minister of Employment, board member in the Danish Association for Labour Law, and chairman of the board of the Danish Labour Law Research Foundation.

JARI MURTO

jari.murto@helsinki.fi
University of Helsinki

Jari Murto is an assistant professor (tenure track) in labour and social law at the University of Helsinki Faculty of Law. Murto's dissertation "Firm-specific group norms" was written in Finnish (2015). His main research interests are the determination on terms of employment as well as development of norm system and doctrines of labour law. In the area of social law, Murto's main research interests are related the transitional labour market and different transitions in the labour market, especially continuous learning. Before University of Helsinki Murto worked at the University of Turku.

ZUZANNA MUSKAT GORSKA

zuzanna.muskat-gorska@ituc-csi.org
ITUC

Zuzanna Muskat-Gorska works as a Legal Officer for the International Trade Union Confederation. She supports the organization's legal advocacy before the International Labour Organization and other international institutions and advises trade unions on labour law and policy. She cooperates with the Institute for Labour Law of the KU Leuven, Belgium, as external scientific collaborator. She holds LLM in international and EU law from the KU Leuven; MA in sociology of law from the Oñati IISL, Spain; MA in industrial sociology from the University of the Witwatersrand, South Africa; and Master of Laws from the UAM University, Poznan, Poland.

JUNE NAMGOONG

jnamgoong@kli.re.kr
Korea Labor Institute

My name is June Namgoong (he/him) and I am a research fellow at the Korea Labor Institute (KLI), the independent national think-tank in South Korea specialising in labour studies. I am most interested in the interaction between labour regulation and trade/investment at a global level and new types of work arrangements emerging from technological development. I hold a PhD in law (University College London, UK), an LLM (Vanderbilt University, US) and an LLB (Korea University). My articles have been published in various academic journals including the International Journal of Comparative Labour Law and Industrial Relations.

ELISA NARMINIO

Research and Studies in International Politics (REPI), Université Libre de Bruxelles (Belgium); Graduate School of Asia-Pacific Studies (GSAPS), Waseda University, Tokyo (Japan)

Researcher, Centre for Research and Studies in International Politics (REPI), Université Libre de Bruxelles (Belgium); Graduate School of Asia-Pacific Studies (GSAPS), Waseda University, Tokyo (Japan).

KAMILA NAUMOWICZ

kamila.naumowicz@gmail.com
University of Warmia and Mazury in Olsztyn

PhD in comparative civil law, Assistant Professor in the Department of Labour Law and Social Law at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Warmia and Mazury in Olsztyn, Poland. Expert of the Ministry of Digitization in the field of data protection. Dean's Representative for students with disabilities. Member of international societies for labour law ISLSSL, LLRN and CIELO. Author of numerous publications on the comparative labour law, related to the role of new technologies and data protection in the world of work and the current situation of discriminated and vulnerable groups on the labour market 4.0.

ARLETA NERKA

Kozminski University

Dr Arleta Nerka - doctor of law, assistant professor at the Department of Labor Law, College of Law, Kozminski University, head of the Postgraduate Study on Personal Data Protection at Kozminski University. Conducts interdisciplinary research in the field of labor law, social security law and personal data protection law; author of several dozen scientific and practical publications.

CÉCILE NICODE

cecile.nicod@univ-lyon2.fr
Université Lumière, Lyon 2

Cécile Nicod is a lecturer at the University Lumière Lyon 2 (France). She is in charge of the "Institut de Formation Syndicale", an organization funded by the Ministry of Labor which provides training to members of trade unions and labor arbitrators. Specialized in the study of industrial relations law, her current researches are mainly focused on two areas: new forms of employment and collective rights of workers on the one hand, and on the other hand, the impact of the reforms of collective bargaining and workers' representation adopted in France in recent years.

MAAYAN NIEZNA

University of Kent

Maayan Niezna is a PhD candidate and Assistant Lecturer at the University of Kent, UK and a Visiting Research Fellow at TraffLab: Labor Perspective to Human Trafficking (ERC project, Tel-Aviv University). She holds MSc in Human Rights from LSE, and LL.B in Law and Philosophy from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. Her research concerns the elements of unfree labour, focusing on non-citizen workers (Palestinians and migrant workers) in Israel.

PAULO FERNANDO NOGUEIRA CUNHA

pfncunha@usp.br
University of Sao Paulo School of Law

Master's student in Labor Law at University of Sao Paulo School of Law. Specialist (Post graduation) in Labor Law at the same institution. Lawyer and journalist. Legal advisor at the Public Ministry for Labor Matters (Ministério Público do Trabalho) since 2014.

TONIA NOVITZ

tonia.novitz@bristol.ac.uk
University of Bristol

Tonia Novitz is Professor of Labour Law and was a founding co-director of the Centre for Law at Work at the University of Bristol. She is currently chair of the steering committee of the Labour Law Research Network (LLRN). Her research focuses on labour law, human rights, trade, and sustainability.

BIRGITTA NYSTRÖM

birgitta.nystrom@jur.lu.se
Lund University

My main area of research is Swedish labour law and EU labour law. I am especially interested in the influence of EU labour law on the labour law and industrial relations systems of the Nordic countries.

YVONNE OLDFIELD

y.oldfield@gmail.com
Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand

I am currently engaged in a PhD topic relating to the scope of coverage of ILO conventions 189 and 190. Prior to that my most recent employment was as deputy secretary of the NZ secondary school teachers union. I have also previously worked in dispute resolution (as an employment mediator and arbitrator) and in the tertiary education sector.

IZABELA OLEJARZ

izabela.olejarz@dlapiper.com
DLA Piper Giziński Kycia sp.j.

Izabela Olejarz is a Junior Associate in the Employment department at DLA Piper in Warsaw. She advises both Polish and foreign companies and individual clients on various aspects of employment law. In particular, she specialises in issues related to the termination of employment contracts (both individual and collective redundancies) and in labour law litigation. She also advises on the development and implementation of internal company regulations and on social security issues.

PEDRO OLIVEIRA

pedro_amri@hotmail.com
Coimbra Law School - University of Coimbra

PhD student in Public Law (Coimbra Law School - University of Coimbra); Fellow of the Portuguese Foundation for Science and Technology (FCT); Member of CIELO Laboral.

MARIUS OLIVIER

olivier@iislp.net.au
University of Western Australia; North-west University South Africa; Nelson Mandela University, South Africa

Marius Olivier is an experienced Social Security, Social Protection and Migration Consultant, Legal Expert, Scholar and Researcher. He holds the BA (Law), LLB and LLD degrees and also holds ad-hoc professorial appointments with Nelson Mandela University and Northwest University (South Africa) and the University of Western Australia (Australia). He has published widely and has rendered comprehensive legal, advisory and policy services to international and regional organisations, several governments, social security institutions, and development agencies and donor institutions involved in social protection.

PHILIPP ONDREJKA

philipp.ondrejka@univie.ac.at University of Vienna

Philipp Ondrejka, LL.M. (WU), teaching and research assistant and doctoral candidate at the Institute for Labour and Social Security Law at the University of Vienna, Austria.

HENRY ORDOWER

henry.ordower@slu.edu
Saint Louis University School of Law

Henry Ordower is Professor of Law and past Co-Director of the Center for International and Comparative Law at Saint Louis University School of Law. Ordower researches on and teaches taxation, both domestic and international, and corporate finance. He has consulted regularly in the private sector and served as general counsel to an emerging markets, private investment fund management company. He holds his J.D. degree from The University of Chicago and is an elected member of the European Association of Tax Law Professors, International Academy of Comparative Law and American College of Tax Counsel. Ordower travels and lectures worldwide.

ADRIANA ORIFICI

adriana.orifici@monash.edu
Monash University

Adriana Orifici is a Lecturer in the Department of Business Law and Taxation at Monash Business School and member of the Labour, Equality and Human Rights Research Group (LEAH). She currently teaches Employment Law and is undertaking her PhD in the Centre for Employment and Labour Relations Law (CELRL) at Melbourne Law School. Adriana's research focuses on Australian labour and equality laws and her PhD uses doctrinal and empirical research methods to examine the regulatory framework that applies to workplace investigations.

WOJCIECH OSTASZEWSKI

w.ostaszewski@wpia.uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

Wojciech Ostaszewski, PhD-Assistant Professor in the Department of Labour Law and Social Policy at the Faculty of Law and Administration, University of Warsaw; Attorney-at-law. Author of over 20 scientific publications in the field of labour law.

MARTA OTTO

motto@wpia.uni.lodz.pl
University of Lodz

Marta Otto holds a PhD degree from the Department of Law of the European University Institute. She is a former scholar of the International Society for Labour Law and Social Security Law, COMPTRASEC and CRIMT. Currently, she works as an Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Law and Administration, University of Lodz. Cofounder and Coordinator of Polish Labour Law and Social Security Research Network Cooperante; Member of the AI Work Team; Member of the Advisory Committee of LLRN. Member of the Academic Board of Marco Biaggi Foundation Doctoral Research Programme (PhD) in Labour, Development and Innovation.

BARBARA PALLI

barbara.palli@univ-lorraine.fr
University of Lorraine

Barbara Palli obtained a Master and a Phd from the University of Strasbourg. Since 2007 she holds a permanent position at the University of Lorraine (France). Her area of expertise is national (French) Labor law, comparative law, and EU social law. Barbara has a good grasp of several languages. She is a member of the scientific/editorial Committee of the legal Review Revista Internacional comparada de Relaciones laborales y Derecho del Empleo and Greek Labor Law Review.

MAGDALENA PALUSZKIEWICZ

mpaluszkievicz@wpia.uni.lodz.pl
University of Lodz

Magdalena Paluszkiewicz graduated from the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Lodz. Since 2021 she is employed as an Associate Professor in the Department of Labour Law of the University of Lodz. She is an author of various scientific publications on labour law, including books, commentaries and articles in scientific journals. Her research interests revolve around, in particular, the issues of temporary employment and other atypical forms of employment, legal measures of unemployment prevention, as well as the occupational and social rehabilitation of people with disabilities.

OLIVIA PASQUALETO

oliviapasqualetto@hotmail.com
Fundação Getúlio Vargas and University of São Paulo

PhD and Master in labour law and social security from the Faculty of Law of the University of São Paulo. Post-doctoral researcher at the University of São Paulo. Labour law Professor at Fundação Getúlio Vargas. Researcher at the Center for Education and Research in Innovation at Fundação Getúlio Vargas.

AMIR PAZ-FUCHS

a.paz-fuchs@sussex.ac.uk
University of Sussex

Following his LL.B. at the Hebrew University (magna cum laude), Amir finished his D.Phil at Oxford University. He teaches and researches in labour and employment law, jurisprudence, social rights and social justice, legal aspects of privatisation and Clinical Legal Education. Amir also served on the board of several human rights and social justice NGOs. Amir has published widely, including a monograph - Welfare to Work (OUP2008) and two edited collection on privatisation and state responsibility (2015; 2018). He has also published academic articles and chapters in collected volumes, and the MLR, OJLS, HR LJ, and Comp Labour L&P.

DANIEL PÉREZ DEL PRADO

daniel.perez.delprado@uc3m.es
Carlos III University Of Madrid

Daniel Pérez del Prado is an associate professor at Carlos III University of Madrid, Ph. D in Law (with honours) and also an economist. He is author of three books and several articles on different topics but frequently analysed from an interdisciplinary perspective. He is specialized in Social Law and Labour Economics. He has participated in national and international conferences and meetings, has taken part in a number of research projects, some of them of international scope and has carried out research stays at some of most prestigious universities, such as the University of Cambridge, Aalborg University, Université Libre de Bruxelles.

ADALBERTO PERULLI

adaper@unive.it
University Ca' Foscari Venice

Full professor of labor law at Ca' Foscari University of Venice (Italy). Visiting Professor at Nanterre University of Paris (France). Director of Gesam Master. Author of several books and articles published by the most important Italian and European editors and labor law journals.

ZOLTÁN PETROVICS

Eötvös Loránd University Faculty of Law (Budapest)

Assistant Professor (Eötvös Loránd University Faculty of Law and University of Public Service Faculty of Public Governance and International Studies). He worked for several years at the Ministry of Social Affairs and Labour, the Ministry of National Economy and law firms. He has been involved in several research projects (eg CEELAB) and was a member of several jurisprudence analysis groups of the Hungarian Supreme Court. Since July 2012, he has been a member of the Hungarian Industry Participation Commission and since October 2015 he has been its chairman. He is the editor-in-chief of the Hungarian legal journal Munkajog (Labour Law).

NICOLA PIPER

n.piper@qmul.ac.uk

Queen Mary University of London

Nicola Piper is Professor of International Migration and was Founding Director of the Sydney Asia Pacific Migration Centre at the University of Sydney. In 2018, the British Academy awarded her a Global Professor Fellowship, hosted by Queen Mary University of London in the UK, where she will be conducting research until December 2022. As a political sociologist, her research interests focus primarily on global labour mobility, global and regional migration governance, advocacy politics and gender. She is (co-)chief editor of the international peer-reviewed journal Global Social Policy and editor of the book series "Asian migration" with Routledge.

DAIVA PETRYLAITE

daiva.petrylaite@tf.vu.lt
Vilnius University

Daiva Petrylaite is the professor of Labour Law and the head of the Collective labour Law and Social Partnership Institute in the Faculty of Law in Vilnius University. She participates in internships, delivered various lectures at the universities of Italy, Spain, Poland, Germany, and other countries. Daiva is the author (co-author) of scientific monographs, textbooks, and numerous scientific articles on issues relating to labour law, social partnership, and public service. Since 2017 she is appointed as justice of the Constitutional Court of the Republic of Lithuania.

ŁUKASZ PISARCZYK

l.pisarczyk@wpia.uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

Łukasz Pisarczyk: an associate professor in the Department of Labour Law at the University of Warsaw and a visiting professor at the University of Silesia in Katowice.

VINCENZO PIETROGIOVANNI

vincenzopietrogiovanni@law.au.dk
Aarhus University

Vincenzo Pietrogiovanni is Associate Professor of Labour Law, affiliated with Lund University. He is currently employed by Aarhus University as Postdoctoral Fellow. He also work at University of Bologna 'Alma Mater' as Adjunct Professor in Industrial Relations. His research focuses on Collective Labour Freedoms, EU and International and Comparative Labour Law as well as Labour Law in the perspective of Ecological and Technological Transition. He has co-founded the Moving Labour Collective (MLC) and the Nordic Network of Labour Law Scholars (NNLLS), and is actively engaged within the Labour Law Community (LLC).

MARILYN PITTARD

marilyn.pittard@monash.edu
Monash University

Professor Marilyn Pittard is professor in labour and employment law at the Faculty of Law, Monash University, in Melbourne, Australia. She teaches in the labour law field at undergraduate and postgraduate levels, co-authors Australian Labour and Employment Law published by LexisNexis, (amongst other publications) and is President of the Australian Labour Law Association.

LORENA POBLETE

lorena.poblete@conicet.gov.ar
CONICET-IDAES/UNSAM

Lorena Poblete is a researcher at CONICET (Argentina's National Research Council) and Professor at the Instituto de Altos Estudios Sociales, Universidad Nacional de San Martín. She holds a PhD in Sociology from the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales (Paris, Francia) and a Master in Ethnology and Social Anthropology from the same university. Her research is broadly focused on labor regulations, social security regimes and labor institutions. Currently, her research focus on regulation of digital platform work and, and the dispute resolution mechanisms for paid domestic workers in Argentina.

ALJOŠA POLAJŽAR

University of Maribor, Faculty of Law

Young Research Fellow and PhD student at the University of Maribor, Faculty of Law. Main research interests: Labour law, platform work, new ways of working

NASTAZJA POTOCKA-SIONEK

nastazja.potocka-sionek@eui.eu
EUI

Nastazja Potocka-Sionek is a PhD candidate in law at the European University Institute in Florence. Her doctoral dissertation focuses on the regulatory challenges posed by digital labour platforms. More broadly, her research interests lie in international, European and comparative labour law. She holds a Master's Degree in Law from the University of Łódź (2015), an LL.M. in German Law from the University of Münster (2017), and an LL.M. in Comparative, European and International Laws from the European University Institute (2018). She worked as an intern at the International Labour Organisation in the Labour Law and Reform Unit (2019/2020).

ARIEL PRZYBYŁOWICZ

ariel.przybylowicz2@uwr.edu.pl
University of Wrocław

Dr. Ariel Przybyłowicz, assistant professor at the Department of Labour Law at the Faculty of Law, Administration and Economics of the University of Wrocław, legal advisor.

MAURO PUCHETA

m.pucheta@kingston.ac.uk
Kingston University London

I am a Lecturer in Law at Kingston University. Before joining Kingston, I was a Lecturer in Law at the University of Gloucestershire (2017-2019). I was also a teaching assistant in EU Labour law at the Université Paris 1-Sorbonne (2012), and teaching assistant in Argentine Labour law the Universidad Nacional de Córdoba, Argentina (2007-2009). I have undertaken research in employment law, EU law, and regional integration with particular interest in Latin America.

ILARIA PURIFICATO

ilaria.purificato@unimore.it Fondazione Marco Biagi - Università di Modena e Reggio Emilia

PhD student in Labour, Development and Innovation at the Marco Biagi Foundation-University of Modena and Reggio Emilia. Research team member of the "Irel- Smarter Industrial Relations To Address New Technological Challenges In The World Of Work" project. Her main field of research is platform work.

GALI RACABI

gracabi@gmail.com
Harvard Law School

S.J.D. candidate at Harvard Law School

MICHAŁ RACZKOWSKI

m.raczkowski@wpia.uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

Assistant professor (dr hab.) in Department of Labour Law and Social Policy, University of Warsaw. Author and co-author of over 100 works concerning different aspects of labour law and social security law. Advocate.

SILVIA RAINONE

srainone@etui.org
ETUI (European Trade Union Institute)

Silvia is a legal researcher at the ETUI since november 2019. Silvia holds a Law degree from the University of Bologna (2012), where she specialized in European integration and fundamental rights, as well as from University of Amsterdam (UvA) where in 2014 she obtained an LLM in International and European Labour Law. Silvia is also currently completing her PhD dissertation on EU labour law before the Court of Justice in a joint Doctoral programme with Tilburg University and KU Leuven.

UMA RANI

amara@ilo.org
International Labour Office

Uma Rani is Senior Economist at the Research Department of the International Labour Office. She is a Development Economist and has conducted research in informal economy, minimum wages and social policies. Since 2016, her research focuses on transformations in the digital economy, wherein she explores how labour and social institutions interact with public policies and can provide decent working conditions to workers. She has recently coordinated the publication of the ILO flagship report, World Employment and Social Outlook 2021: The role of digital labour platforms in transforming the world of work.

ZANE RASNACA

zrasnaca@etui.org
ETUI and KU Leuven

Zane Rasnača currently works as a senior researcher at the ETUI and is an associated research fellow at the Institute of European Law at KU Leuven. She holds a PhD (2017) from the European University Institute in Florence. She holds degrees from the University of Cambridge (specialization in European law) and the University of Latvia. She has worked for the Ministry of Justice of the Republic of Latvia in the office of the Representative before the CJEU, and has taught EU law, Constitutional law and human rights courses at the University of Latvia and Riga Graduate School of Law.

LUCA RATTI

luca.ratti@uni.lu
University of Luxembourg

Luca Ratti is Associate Professor of European and Comparative Labour Law and director of the Master in European Law (1 year) at the University of Luxembourg. He holds a Doctorate from the University of Bologna (2007) where he also served as Senior Researcher and Adjunct Professor in Labour Law and Social Security since 2012, after having spent a period as visiting post-doc in the United Kingdom. He has coordinated research projects and publications on personal damages, individual and collective dismissals, outsourcing, and self-employment relationships, making particular use of the comparative method. He is currently Principal Investigator in research projects funded by

GIUSEPPE ANTONIO RECCHIA

giuseppe.recchia@uniba.it Università degli Studi di Bari Aldo Moro

Giuseppe Antonio Recchia, PhD, is currently Assistant Professor in Labour Law at the Department of Political Science of the University of Bari, having previously worked for University of Foggia and University of Venice Ca' Foscari. He has authored a monograph (Studio sulla giustiziabilità degli interessi collettivi dei lavoratori, Cacucci, 2018) and published numerous papers in law journals and books. His research focuses on trade union law and industrial relations, anti-discrimination law, business transformation and on its effects on the employment relationship, as well as on the gig economy.

ANNA REDA-CISZEWSKA

a.reda@uksw.edu.pl
Uniwersytet Kardynała Stefana Wyszyńskiego w Warszawie

Anna Reda-Ciszewska, PhD (Law), assistant professor at the Department of Labor Law at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński University in Warsaw, specialist in labor law, author of several scientific publications

AMANDA REILLY

Amanda.Reilly@vuw.ac.nz
Victoria University of Wellington

Amanda Reilly is a Senior Lecturer in the School of Accounting and Commercial Law at Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand.

ARIANNE RENAN BARZILAY

University of Haifa Faculty of Law

Dr. Arianne Renan Barzilay is an Associate Professor (Senior Lecturer) at University of Haifa Faculty of Law. Her interests include Gender Discrimination, Equality at Work, Future of Work, Gig Economy, Workplace Regulation. Her scholarship has been published in various flagship law reviews worldwide, including specialized journals of top Universities such as Harvard, Columbia, Berkeley, Cornell and Yale Law Schools. Her research has been cited in academic papers, governmental reports, the media, by courts, and in the ILO's landmark report on the future of work.

ANA RIBEIRO

aribeiro@porto.ucp.pt
Universidade Católica Portuguesa (Oporto Law School)

Ana Teresa Ribeiro is a Lecturer at the Oporto Law School of the Universidade Católica Portuguesa. She has recently concluded her PhD on the subject of collective bargaining, which is her main focus of study. Her areas of interest are Labour Law, Constitutional Law, and Fundamental rights.

SOPHIE ROBIN-OLIVIER

srobinolivier@gmail.com
University Paris 1

Sophie Robin-Olivier is a Professor of Law at the Sorbonne school of Law. She teaches EU Law (Institutional and Substantive), Comparative Law, Labour and Employment Law and Anti-discrimination Law, both in French and in English. Her research focuses, mostly, on EU Social Law and Free movement of persons. Recently, she edited an "Article-by-Article Commentary on International and European Labour Law", together with a group of European Professors (2018, Nomos) and published a "European Labour Law" textbook (2016, Bruylant).

MARCO ROCCA

mrocca@unistra.fr
CNRS - Centre National de la recherche scientifique

Dr. Marco Rocca is a permanent researcher at the CNRS (Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique / National Centre for Scientific Research) affiliated to the University of Strasbourg (France). His research focuses on European and International Labour Law, and his research interests cover posting of workers and other forms of labour mobility in Europe, the impact on labour and social rights of the economic governance of the European Union, and the relationship between EU law and international labour law.

LISA RODGERS

lr141@le.ac.uk
University of Leicester

Dr Lisa Rodgers is an Associate Professor of Labour Law at the University of Leicester UK. She is currently investigating the relationship between health and safety and labour law in the pandemic.

ANTONIO RODRIGUES DE FREITAS JÚNIOR

arfreit@usp.br
University of Sao Paulo School of Law

Associate Professor at the University of Sao Paulo (USP) School of Law (FaDUSP), where he lectures and researches with an emphasis on Work and Digital Technologies, Social Protection of Migrants, and Alternative Dispute Resolution. During the 2018 Spring academic term (Jan-Jul/2018), he held researches as a Visiting Fellow in the Cornell University - ILR, (Ithaca). He has also lectured or conducted research abroad at institutions such as the Universities of Shinshu - Matsumoto and Tokyo (Japan), University of Oregon (USA), Modena - ADAPT (Italy), Coimbra (Portugal), Bari (Italy), Andalucía (Spain).

MATIAS RODRIGUEZ BURR

rodriguez.burr@gmail.com
University of Bristol

PhD (Law) of University of Bristol, LLM at LSE, Attorney at Law (Santiago, Chile), Lecturer of Law at Universidad Adolfo Ibanez (Employment LLM).

SARAI RODRÍGUEZ GONZÁLEZ

sarodri@ull.edu.es
University of La Laguna

Sarai Rodríguez González is Lecturer in the Labour and Social Security Law Department at the University of La Laguna (Canary Islands) and member of the Institute of Women's Studies of the University of La Laguna. She is also an independent expert for ÖSB Consulting in the framework of the call of the European Commission No. JUST/2018/RGEN/ PR/EQUA/0011 entitled "Implementation of a programme of exchanges of good practices on gender equality". Her main areas of research are equality, work-life balance, working time and non-discriminatory remuneration based on gender.

CÉSAR F. ROSADO MARZÁN

cesar-rosadomarzan@uiowa.edu
University of Iowa

Professor Rosado Marzán joined Iowa Law in the Fall 2020. He teaches Contracts, Employment Discrimination, International and Comparative Labor and Employment Law, and the Law of Low-wage Workers. His scholarship, empirical and doctrinal, has focused on U.S., comparative, and international labor and employment law and labor movements. His most recent book, Principled Labor Law: U.S. Labor Law from a Latin American Method (Oxford 2019) won the Simón Bolívar Prize for Best Juridical Work from the Bar Association of Puerto Rico. His current project explores how small and underfunded worker centers help to promote moral economies that expand workers' rights.

EMILY ROSE

emily.rose@strath.ac.uk
University of Strathclyde

I am a socio-legal researcher based at the University of Strathclyde in Glasgow, United Kingdom. My research interests include the regulation of knowledge work and other forms of immaterial labour, working time, the relationship between work and personal life, and access to justice in employment disputes. I currently hold a Leverhulme Research Fellowship for a project examining law and the labour undertaken in the tech sector.

FELICIA ROSIORU

rosiorufelicia@yahoo.com
Babes-Bolyai University

Felicia Rosioru is Associate Professor of Labour Law and EU Employment Law at the Faculty of Law, Babes-Bolyai University, Cluj-Napoca, Romania. Felicia Rosioru specializes in Romanian, European and comparative labour law. Member of the COGENS, INLACRIS and NUTRA projects, her research focuses on the concept of subordination, the status of intermediate categories, such as the economically dependent workers and the status and the collective rights of platform workers. Her most relevant publications include Dreptul individual al muncii (2017), The changing concept of subordination (Gy. Kiss (ed.), 2013); Legal Acknowledgement of the Category of Economically Dependent Workers (European Labour Law Journal,

SUPRIYA ROUTH

srouth@uvic.ca
University of Victoria

Supriya Routh is an assistant professor at the University of Victoria Faculty of Law, Canada. His research interests are conceptual accounts of labour law and labour law in global South.

LIVIO RUBINO

livio.rubino@uhasselt.be Hasselt University

My name is Livio Rubino and I am a joint PhD student at the University of Verona and Hasselt University. My PhD research focuses on reasonable accommodation for students with disabilities in the field of higher education, through a comparison between the Belgian and Italian systems, in an EU law perspective. I am interested in EU law, particularly EU anti-discrimination law, and in multi-disciplinary and comparative approach. I graduated from the University of Palermo with a Master's degree in Law and I also hold an LL.M in European Law from Utrecht University.

MARIANNA RUSSO

m.russo@unidav.it
Telematic University "Leonardo da Vinci"

Researcher in Labour Law at the Telematic University "Leonardo da Vinci" (Italy); PhD at the University of Rome "Sapienza"; currently contract professor at the University of Chieti-Pescara "Gabriele d'Annunzio" and at the University of Rome Sapienza; labour inspector at the National Labour Inspectorate since 2006; author of more than 80 publications in Italian and in English; speaker at several national and international conferences.

DESMOND RYAN

desmond.ryan@tcd.ie
Trinity College Dublin

Dr. Desmond Ryan LL.B. (Dubl.), B.C.L., M.A. (Oxon.), PhD (Dubl.), Barrister-at-Law, F.T.C.D. is an Associate Professor and Director of the LL.M. Programmes in the School of Law at Trinity College Dublin, where he teaches Employment Law. His principal areas of research interest are the contract of employment, the relationship between tort law and employment law (particularly regarding vicarious liability); dismissal law under both common law and statute, and the interaction between labour law and human rights. He is interested in all aspects of labour law and is a convenor of the Private Law Group at Trinity College Dublin.

BENJAMIN SACHS

Harvard Law School

Benjamin Sachs is the Kestnbaum Professor of Labor and Industry at Harvard Law School and a leading expert in the field of labor law and labor relations. Professor Sachs teaches courses in labor law, employment law, and law and social change, and his writing focuses on union organizing and unions in American politics. Prior to joining the Harvard faculty in 2008, Professor Sachs was the Joseph Goldstein Fellow at Yale Law School.

JONATHAN SALE

sale.jonathan@gmail.com
University of Newcastle

Dr. Jonathan Sale is a Lecturer at the University of Newcastle, Australia. His fields of research include labour and comparative law.

BEATA SAMORAJ-CHARITONOW

beata.samoraj@uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

Dr Beata Samoraj-Charitonow - Since 2008, assistant professor at the Institute of Social Policy of the University of Warsaw, in 2008-2018 lecturer at the Regional Medical Chamber in Warsaw and post-graduate studies at the Medical University of Warsaw. Scholarship holder and student of the Free University in Berlin and Humboldt University, as well as the Minister of Science and Higher Education. In the years 2006-2016, he was a member of the Presidium of the Main Board of the Polish Society for Social Policy. Graduated from Faculty of Computer Science of the Polish-Japanese Academy of Information Technology in Warsaw.

ALEX SANS DALMAU

alexsd.uni@gmail.com
University of Barcelona

PhD student. Law Degree at the University Pompeu Fabra (Barcelona). Master's Degree in Legal Practice at the University of Barcelona. Labour Lawyer.

INA SCHIMMEROOTH

ina.schimmeroth@uni-hamburg.de
University of Hamburg

Ina Kathrin Schimmeroth studied law at the University of Freiburg, Bahçeşehir University Istanbul and at the Free University Berlin and obtained an LL.M. in Transnational Law at King's College London. She is currently working and researching as a PhD student at the University of Hamburg. Her special interest lies in European and International Labour Law as well as in Labour Law and sustainability.

MONIKA SCHLACHTER

Trier University

Monika Schlachter, chair for labour and industrial relations law, Trier University, Germany. Director of the research institute IAAEU, dedicated to EU labour law. Specialising in comparative legal projects. Main topics: industrial relations and industrial action, social human rights and equality

CLAUDIA SCHUBERT

claudia.schubert@uni-hamburg.de
University of Hamburg

Prof. Dr. Claudia Schubert, Professor for Civil Law, Labour Law, Corporate Law and Comparative Law at the Faculty of Law, University of Hamburg/Germany

SOPHIE SCHWERTNER

sophie.schwertner@univie.ac.at University of Vienna

Research and teaching assistant, doctoral candidate / University of Vienna, Department for labour and social security law

CATHARINA SCODRO

catharina.scodro@usp.br
University of São Paulo

Student of Master of Laws (LL.M) at the Law School of Ribeirão Preto, University of São Paulo, with a scholarship from the Coordenação de Aperfeiçoamento de Pessoal de Nível Superior (CAPES Foundation).

SARA SECK

Sara.Seck@dal.ca
Dalhousie University

Dr Sara Seck is an Associate Professor at the Schulich School of Law, Dalhousie University, and a member of the Marine & Environmental Law Institute. She is a director with the Global Network for Human Rights and the Environment, co-editor of the new Cambridge Handbook on Environmental Justice and Sustainable Development, and a member of the editorial board of the Business & Human Rights Journal. More information on her research is available at: <https://works.bepress.com/sara-seck/>

NATALIE SEDACCA

University of Exeter

Natalie Sedacca is a Lecturer in Law at the University of Exeter and is completing her PhD at University College London (UCL). Her doctoral research, which been funded by the London Arts & Humanities Partnership and UCL Faculty of Laws, analyses the legal position of domestic workers and their frequent exclusion from protective labour law legislation and critiques this exclusion on the basis of human rights standards. It includes case studies on Chile and the UK with empirical work in each. Natalie is also a trustee for the domestic worker charity Kalayaan.

IACOPO SENATORI

iacopo.senatori@unimore.it University of Modena and Reggio Emilia
Marco Biagi Foundation

Assistant Professor of Labour Law at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia. He received a PhD in Labour Law and Industrial Relations at the University of Bologna. Member of the Academic Advisory Board of the Marco Biagi Foundation, University of Modena and Reggio Emilia. Coordinator of the Labour Law Area in the PhD Programme of Labour, Development and Innovation at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia. Managing Editor of the Italian Labour Law E-Journal. His research interests include EU Labour Law, freedom of association and collective bargaining, workers' well-being and the regulation of new forms of work.

KATARZYNA SERAFIN

kserafin@wpia.uni.lodz.pl
University of Lodz

Assistant professor in the Department of Labour Law and Social Security at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Lodz. Academic teacher, lecturer in postgraduate studies. Author of publications in the field of individual and collective labour law. My scientific research focuses mainly on the issue of collective action by the social partners, trade unions and non-union employees' representations, and employees' rights related to parenthood.

HILA SHAMIR

Tel Aviv University

Hila Shamir is an Associate Professor at Tel-Aviv University Faculty of Law. Hila teaches and researches in the fields of Employment, Labor, Immigration, and Welfare Law with a focus on issues of labor trafficking, and gender equality. In 2018 Hila received an European Research Council (ERC) grant to pursue research on a Labor Approach to Human Trafficking, and established the TraffLab research group www.trafflab.org. At TraffLab an interdisciplinary group of scholars and lawyers are researching various labor based tools to transform structures that enable severe forms of labor market exploitation in a global economy.

ZAKARIA SHVELIDZE

Tbilisi State University

Dr. Zakaria Shvelidze is adjunct lecturer at Tbilisi State University, faculty of law and partner at a leading Georgian business law firm Gvinadze & Partners. Zakaria has served as trainer, speaker (discussant) and paper presenter at over twenty international and national conferences and workshops on labour law and international labour standards. He is the author of national and international publications, research papers, two monographs and books on Georgian labour law.

PETER SIPKA

iroda@drsipka.hu
University of Debrecen, Faculty of Law

Peter Sipka works at the University of Debrecen Faculty of Law as an assistant professor, where he teaches labour and social law for law students and in LLM programs. He graduated his PhD in 2014. (the title of the Thesis: The Collision of the Changed Employer's Liability with the Regulation of the Occupational Health and Safety and Social Security in Hungary). He publishes regularly in Academic publications. He is a contributor of World Bank's Doing Business program, and the author of several articles and book chapters in labour law.

ANDREA SITZIA

andrea.sitzia@unipd.it Università di Padova

Associate Professor of Labour Law. Lecturer in labour law and EU labour law in the School of Economics and Political Science at the University of Padua. Lawyer specialised in labour law. Speaker at national and international conferences. Author of numerous scientific publications on labour law in national and international journals. His main areas of expertise are procurement, protection of privacy, EU labour law, comparative labour law, prisoner labour, corporate social responsibility, gig economy labour, artificial intelligence. Examination commissioner for the recognition of the Personnel Certification of Privacy Expert and DPO. President of the Commission for the Certification of Employment.

ERIK SJÖDIN

erik.sjodin@sofi.su.se
Stockholm University

Associate professor in private law, particularly labour law at the Swedish Institute for Social Research, Stockholm University.

PAUL SMIT

paul.smit@nwu.ac.za
North-West University in Potchefstroom

Associate Professor in the School of Industrial Psychology and Human Resource Management at the North-West University in Potchefstroom. South Africa. He obtained his PhD: (Labour Relations Management) from the University of Pretoria. Member of SASLAW (The South African Society of Labour Law) and the ISL&SSL (International Society for Labour and Social Security Law), registered Master Practitioner (Employment Relations) at the SABPP (South African Board of Personnel Practice). Teaches Labour Relations on graduate and post graduate level. Has presented papers at International and local conferences and have published a number of articles in International and local academic journals.

FLÁVIA SOUZA MÁXIMO PEREIRA

flavia.pereira@ufop.edu.br
Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto

Assistant Professor of Labor Law and Social Security Law at Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto, Brazil. PhD in Labor Law from Università degli Studi di Roma - Tor Vergata in Cotutelle Agreement with Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais. Coordinator of the research group “Ressaber: Estudos em Saberes Decoloniais” at Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto, Brazil. Author of “Labor Law and Dissident Epistemologies”, Edward Elgar Publishing, Elgar Studies in Labor Law Monograph Series (forthcoming) with Pedro Augusto Gravatá Nicoli. Member of the core group of research “Democratizing work” (<https://democratizingwork.org/>).

CARLA SPINELLI

carla.spinelli@uniba.it University of Bari Aldo Moro

Her studies concern various areas of labour law and industrial relations, including participation in research projects of national and international relevance. Her main interests focus on: digital work, flexicurity, work-life balance, disabilities, work in the public sector. Speaker at national and international conferences. Author of many essays on labour law, industrial relations, European labour law. She published two books: Il datore di lavoro pubblico. Autonomia organizzativa e poteri del dirigente, Cacucci, 2012; Tecnologie digitali e lavoro agile, Cacucci, 2018. Member of editorial boards and referee for several labour law reviews.

JELENA STARCEVIC

starcej@mcmaster.ca
McMaster University

Jelena Starcevic holds a bachelor's degree in law from the University of Belgrade (Serbia), MA in Peace and Justice from the University of San Diego (USA) and is currently pursuing doctoral degree at the School of Labour Studies at McMaster University (Canada). She has extensive professional experience in areas of occupational health and safety, employment of vulnerable groups, labour standards and labour mobility having worked for Serbian Employers' Organization, International Labour Organization, and the Government of Serbia. Her current research focus is on the future of work and the effects of digitalization on the labour market institutions and participants.

EWA STASZEWSKA

estaszewska@wpia.uni.lodz.pl
Uniwersytet Łódzki

Ewa Staszewska, PhD in Law, assistant professor at the Department of Labor Law, Faculty of Law and Administration, University of Łódź; supervisor of Postgraduate Studies "Staff and Wages" at the Faculty of Law and Administration, University of Łódź; lecturer at the Institute of Media and Music Production at the Grażyna and Kiejstut Bacewicz Academy of Music in Łódź. Author of numerous publications in the field of labor law (including monographs and commentaries), in particular on legal problems of unemployment and the labor market, around which her research interests focus. Author of expert and legal opinions, contractor in scientific research projects.

KRZYSZTOF STEFAŃSKI

University of Lodz

Associate professor at the Labour Law Department at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Lodz (Poland). Director of the Postgraduate Studies on Personal Data Protection at the University of Lodz. Team Coordinator - AI Work Team - The research team for conducting studies on the consequences of the development of artificial intelligence and other modern technologies for the labour market, labour law and social insurance. Specialist in labour law with a special focus on working time, termination of the contract of employment and employment in public administration.

CHARALAMPOS STYLOGIANNIS

KU Leuven

Charalampos Stylogiannis is a PhD researcher at KU Leuven University, Belgium. He obtained his B.Sc. at Kapodistrian University, Athens in the field of Political Science and Public Administration. He also obtained an LL.B at the University of Sussex and his LL.M at University College London, in the United Kingdom. He worked as an intern in the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR), Human Rights and Social Issues Section and in the International Labour Organization (ILO), Labour Law and Reform Unit, in Geneva. He has worked as an external consultant for the ILO, as well as other organizations.

BARBARA SURDYKOWSKA

b.surdykowska@solidarnosc.org.pl
NSZZ Solidarność

Barbara Surdykowska, legal advisor in the Expert Office of the National Commission of NSZZ "Solidarność" Trade Union, correspondent of the European Foundation for the Improvement of Living and Working Conditions in Dublin, expert of the Social Dialogue Council. She deals amongst others with issues of workers' social security, collective bargaining, transnational dimension of industrial relations and digitalization of working environment. The particular area her research interest is the Europeanization of industrial relations. She participated in the international research project ARTUS CEE on the articulation of the interests of trade unions from Central and Eastern Europe.

CAROLYN SUTHERLAND

carolyn.sutherland@monash.edu
Monash Business School

Carolyn Sutherland is Head of the Department of Business Law and Taxation at Monash Business School. She is a member of the Labour, Equality and Human Rights Research Group (LEAH). Her recent research focuses on the complexity of enterprise bargaining outcomes; judicial decision-making; and empirical measurement of worker protection in the Asia-Pacific region. She is the lead investigator on an Australian Research Council Discovery Grant which examines the formal and informal regulation of labour disputes in Indonesia, the Philippines and Vietnam.

ELENA SYCHENKO

e.sychenko@mail.ru
Saint Petersburg State University

Head of the undergraduate programme “Law with the advanced study of Chinese law and language”. Head of the Master programme “Transnational legal practice”, Saint Petersburg State University. She received her PhD degree from the University of Catania in 2016, a master degree with honours from Saint Petersburg State University in 2004. Her interests include the following topics: human rights instruments for the protection of workers’ rights, employee’s dignity, protection from harassment.

PIOTR SYPECKI

piotr.sypecki@edu.uni.lodz.pl
University of Lodz

I graduated in 2019 with a Master’s degree from the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Lodz. In the same year I started my further education at the University of Lodz Doctoral School of Social Sciences. During my studies I was a volunteer at the Law Clinic of the University of Lodz. Currently I am involved in the activities of the University Council of the Doctoral Students’ Union. My research interests include employment discrimination and employment rights.

JAKUB SZMIT

jakub.szmit@ug.edu.pl Univeristy of Gdańsk

dr Jakub Szmit - assistant professor at the Department of Labor Law of the University of Gdańsk, specializes primarily in issues related to collective labor law, in particular in the field of trade unions, as well as in broadly understood clerical law, author and co-author of several dozen scientific studies, including monographs and numerous lectures at scientific conferences, member of the Labor Law Codification Committee in 2016-2018

ANDRZEJ SZYBKIE

andrzej.szybkie@zus.pl
Zaklad Ubezpieczen Spolecznych

PhD in social security law in Poland, author of about 60 publications in this area. Director of Foreign Pensions Department in Headquarters of the Polish Social Insurance Institution ZUS, responsible for application by ZUS rules on applicable legislation (coverage) and awarding pensions under international law. Member of team negotiating international social security agreements. Lecturer cooperating with the University of Warsaw – Faculty of Law and Administration. Member of the Polish Social Insurance Association (PSUS). Leading business representative responsible for implementation in ZUS Poland of EESSI system in 2019/2020. Member of Steering Committee of EU platform on combating frauds.

JOANNA SZYMONEK

joanna.szymonek@gmail.com Jagiellonian University/ Polish Institute for Human Rights and Business.

Co- founder and Chairperson of the Oversight Board of the Polish Institute for Human Rights and Business. PhD candidate- Jagiellonian University in Krakow, the Faculty of Management and Social Communication. The expert, researcher and author of publications in the field of employment relations, social dialogue, human rights at the workplace in the context of corporate social responsibility (CSR) and sustainable management of people and organizational culture. The research interests: sustainable supply chain, employment relations, corporate social performance, organizational resilience and managing non-financial risks.

SIMON TAES

KU Leuven

Simon Taes is a PhD candidate at the Institute for Labour Law (KU Leuven – Belgium). He examines the impact of robotization on several areas of labour law, such as the right to privacy and occupational health & safety. He obtained a Master’s degree in psychology (specialization in labour and occupational psychology) and Master’s degree in Law (specialization in social and economic law). In 2019, he participated in the 36th Pontignano Seminar of Comparative Labour Law. He was also one of the main speakers of the ILO Centenary Conference at KU Leuven in cooperation with the ILO Office of Brussels.

DAVIDE TARDIVO
davide.tardivo@unipd.it Università degli studi di Padova

PhD in Labour Law at University of Padova and Labour Lawyer

ANASTASIA TATARYN
atataryn@uwaterloo.ca
St Jerome's University, University of Waterloo

Anastasia is an Assistant Professor of Legal Studies at St Jerome's University, University of Waterloo Canada. Her recent book, Law, Precarious Labour and Migration: Ecotechnics of the Social (Routledge-Taylor Francis, 2021) exemplifies her research approach of interrogating the limits of legal frameworks by deeply questioning the foundations, and categories, of modern law and legal subjectivity. Current research focus includes the circulation of value and work as a challenge to dominant modern legal capitalist forms (focused on capital accumulation and economic productivity) through the lens of ecology – drawing on emerging work on eco-sociality, decolonial thinking and eco-feminism.

GAABRIEL TAVITS
gaabriel.tavits@ut.ee
University of Tartu

Gaabriel Tavits has graduated the University of Tartu, Faculty of Law in 1994. Since then he was involved in research and teaching labour law and social security law. Since 2005 he is a member of the European labour law restatement network. This network has studied different aspects of labour law (notion of an employee, atypical forms of the employment etc.). During the last decade, he has also been the national expert in the European Labour Law Network. During the last two years, the research activity is dedicated to the collective labour relations within the new forms of employment.

AYSLA TEIXEIRA
aysla.teixeira@gmail.com
Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais

Master in Labor Law by UFMG. Graduated by UFMG. Labor Lawyer. Researcher.

TZEHAINESH TEKLE
tekle@ilo.org
ILO

Tzehainesh Tekle is the Managing Editor of the International Labour Review. She has been working with the ILO since 2001 and has held positions at the ILO headquarters, the ILO Dakar Office and the ILO's International Training Centre. She is a lawyer with research and teaching experience in the field of international and comparative labour law, human rights law and anti-discrimination law. She has also been Visiting Fellow in the Law Department of the European University Institute, at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies and at Stellenbosch University. She holds a PhD in Law from the European University Institute

BERYL TER HAAR
b.terhaar@uw.edu.pl
CIELLS, University of Warsaw

Beryl ter Haar is UW Professor and Head of the Centre for International and European Labour Law Studies (CIELLS) at the University of Warsaw, Poland, and Endowed Professor European and Comparative Labour Law at the University of Groningen, the Netherlands. Her research focuses on new developments in international and European labour law, including forms of new governance (open method of coordination) and transnational private regulation (CSR, IFAs/TCA, etc.). Together with prof. Janice Bellace, Ter Haar is the editor of the Research Handbook on Labour, Business and Human Rights Law (EE 2019) and with prof. Attila Kun, Ter Haar edited the book EU Collective Labour Law (EE December 2021).

SOTIRIA THEODOROPOULOU

stheodoropoulou@etui.org
European Trade Union Institute

Sotiria Theodoropoulou has been a Senior Researcher at the European Trade Union Institute (ETUI) since 2010 and Head of the research unit European economic, employment and social policies since 2018. Her research and publications have been focusing on the impact of economic crisis policy responses on member states economies and labour markets. She holds a PhD from the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE) and has previously worked as a researcher at Trinity College Dublin and the Work Foundation in London. She taught economics of the EU for several years at the LSE.

INGA THIEMANN

i.k.thiemann@exeter.ac.uk
University of Exeter

Dr Inga Thiemann is a lecturer in law at the University of Exeter. Her research focuses on human trafficking and exploitation, as well as undervalued work, including 'unskilled' labour, feminised labour and migrant labour. She is particularly interested in worker-focussed approaches to labour regulation in the sex industry and their transferability to feminised work more generally. She combines a critical human trafficking scholarship lens with a feminist approach to the study of work.

PAOLO TOMASSETTI

tomassettpaolo@gmail.com
Aix-Marseille University

Paolo Tomassetti is Marie Skłodowska-Curie Research Fellow at Aix-Marseille University. His research focuses on how to make labour law more responsive to contemporary societal needs, including those concerned with climate change and the transition to a low-carbon economy. In the last few years, Paolo coordinated the EU project "Agreement/A Green Mentality for Collective Bargaining" and other research projects co-funded by the DG Employment and Social Affairs of the European Commission. He leads the editorial board of the Italian labour law journal "Diritto delle relazioni industriali".

MONIKA TOMASZEWSKA

m.tomaszewska@prawo.ug.edu.pl
University of Gdańsk

Professor Monika Tomaszewska is an author of numerous publications including book chapters, articles, glosses, entries in lexicons, etc. on legal topics published in Polish as well as foreign periodicals that focus mostly on fundamental and social rights. Moreover, professor M. Tomaszewska has been participating within the European cooperation framework as a national expert in large-scale insightful studies. Currently, she is involved in the project Working, Yet Poor (WorkYP) Horizon 2020 focused on the increasing social trend of working people at risk or below the poverty line. The leader of WorkYP is Professor Luca Ratti from the University of Luxembourg.

ADRIANA TOPO

adriana.topo@gmail.com
Universita' Degli Studi Di Padova

Adriana Topo is a Full Professor of Labour Law at the University of Padova, founder with Guido Balandi (University of Ferrara) of the International Labour and Business Summer School of Monterotone.

TRANG TRAN

trang.tran2@monash.edu
Monash University

Trang Tran has been working as a lecturer at Hanoi Law University since 2015, where she teaches and researches on Labour Law, Social Security Law, and the Law on People with Disabilities. In 2019, she started her PhD at Business Law and Taxation, Monash School of Business, Monash University. She also has experience in providing consultancy services for the International Labour Organization (ILO) Vietnam, Ergon Associates UK/EU and several non-government organizations. Her researches focus on labour disputes settlement mechanisms, workers representative organizations, collective bargaining, collective action, rights of people with disabilities, social security and human rights.

ANNE TREBILCOCK

Institut für Arbeitsrecht, Georg-August Universität

Vice-President, Asian Development Bank Administrative Tribunal and GAVI Alliance Appeals Tribunal; former Legal Adviser/Director of Legal Services, International Labour Organization. Author of articles on transnational labour law. List on LinkedIn.

JOANNA UNTERSCHÜTZ

joanna.unterschuetz@kadra.wsaib.pl
Wyższa Szkoła Administracji i Biznesu w Gdyni

Dr hab. Joanna Unterschütz - Associate Professor in the Chair of Law at the University of Business and Administration in Gdynia, Poland. The author of publications in the fields of national and European labour law, criminal labour law including human trafficking as well. Her recent research evolves around collective rights of workers in new forms of employment. A member of the Transnational Trade Union Rights Experts Network. Co-operation with Polish Institute for Human Rights and Business (an independent and impartial think tank offering advanced expertise in HR and Business).

GERTRUDA UŚCIŃSKA

Social Insurance Institution (ZUS)

Professor, PhD, president of Social Insurance Institution (ZUS), professor at Warsaw University, member of Institute of Labour and Social Studies, Chair of Committee for Labour and Social Policy of the Polish Academy of Sciences, expert in research programs of universities and institutes from EU Member States (University of Antwerp, Ghent University, Max Planck Institute) in connection to the implementation of EU programs (Consensus, Special, LAW, trESS, FreSsco, MoveS), head and expert in Polish and international projects, author of many publications in the field of social policy, social security, social insurance, and European law

ANNE MARIA HÉLENE (ANKE) VAN DER HOEVEN

a.m.h.van.der.hoeven@law.leidenuniv.nl
Leiden University

After graduating in Antillean and Dutch Law I worked as a judge's clerk at the courts of Amsterdam and The Hague. I continued my career at the office of the Nationale ombudsman where I worked as a researcher, dealing with complaints filed by civilians against the police and the public prosecutor. In 2011 I started studying criminology which resulted in a master Forensic Criminology (2014) and a master Criminal Justice (2015). In November 2016 I started my PhD research on (bogus) constructions and intra EU migrants working in the Netherlands. I focus on the transportation sector and international truckers'

ISABELLE VAN HIEL

University of Ghent

Isabelle Van Hiel works as advisor for the Belgian trade union FGTB and is affiliated to the University of Ghent as academic consultant. She is the author of several contributions on labour law and regularly speaks at seminars and conferences in Belgium and abroad.

LEA VANDERVELDE

l-vandervelde@uiwoa.edu
University of Iowa College of Law

Lea VanderVelde is the Josephine Witte Professor of Law at the University of Iowa College of Law. She began teaching employment law when the field began 25 years ago. She has written treatises, textbooks and several articles on At-will employment, slavery, and the 13th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution and the fundamental rights of workers. Her expertise extends to trafficking, labor migration, guest workers, child labor, and gender discrimination.

FOTIS VERGIS

fotis.vergis@manchester.ac.uk
The University of Manchester

Fotis is Lecturer in Law at the University of Manchester Law School, where he teaches Labour Law and EU Law, and is currently the Programme Director for the LLB Law With Politics programme. He holds a PhD and an LLM from the University of Cambridge, and an LLB and an LLM from the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. His research interests include EU Law and constitutional theory, Labour Law theory and Collective Labour Law. Among others, he sits at the Editorial Board of the Greek Labour Law Review (EErgD) and on the Scientific Committee of the 'Moving Labour Collective' (MLC).

WOUTER VERHEYEN

wouter.verheyen@uantwerpen.be University Antwerp

Wouter Verheyen is research professor platform economy at the University of Antwerp. He lectures transport law and commercial contract law. As of next academic year Verheyen will lecture labour law. He defended his PhD at KULeuven in 2013 and later became assistant and associate professor at Erasmus University Rotterdam, where he was program director of the master commercial law. Currently Verheyen supervises 6 PhDs as promotor, with 3 additional PhDs starting next academic year all in the topics transport and logistics, mobility or platform economy.

ANIL VERMA

anil.verma@rotman.utoronto.ca
University of Toronto

Dr. Anil Verma is Professor, Rotman School of Management, and the Centre for Industrial Relations & Human Resources, University of Toronto. He served as: Director of the Centre for Industrial Relations & Human Resources (2009-15); Chair, Minimum Wage Advisory Panel, Government of Ontario (2013-14); President of the Canadian Industrial Relations Association; Executive Board, International Labour and Employment Relations Association, Geneva; member, Advisory Committee on Labour and Income Statistics, Statistics Canada (1993-2015); member, Board of Directors of COSTI Immigration Services (2006-2015). He has taught by invitation in Vietnam, Brazil, Russia, India, China and Thailand.

ANGELA VERNIA

angela.vernia22@gmail.com
Tribunale di Bari

Judge, Tribunal of Bari – Employment Section. She began her judicial career in 2004 as one of the youngest judges in Italy. She is a trainer for judges and teaches Labour Law at the School for Legal Professions, University of Bari. She is on the national register of professors at the Superior School of Magistracy. She presents papers at conferences for judges run by the Academy of European Law on employment, antidiscrimination, human rights matters. Her decisions are reviewed in renowned Italian Law journals. She worked abroad within the Exchange Programme for Judicial Authorities. She is also author of many publications.

ESTER VILLA

ester.villa2@unibo.it
University of Bologna

Ester Villa is Senior Assistant Professor in Labour Law at the University of Bologna, Department of Legal Studies, where she teaches “Advanced Employment Law”, “Flexsecurity in Labour Law” and “Comparative and Transnational Labour Law”. Since February 2020, Prof. Villa is member of the research unit of Horizon 2020 “WorkYP”. She is also member of the editorial board of two important Italian journals. She is author of a book on “Joint liability as a technique of employees’ protection” and of many publications on different topics, namely repêchage in economic dismissal, co-employment, wages, labour protections in public procurement and service provision change.

JEFFREY VOGT

jvogt@solidaritycenter.org
Solidarity Center

Jeff Vogt is the Rule of Law Director of the Solidarity Center, the largest U.S.-based international worker rights organization, and co-founder of the International Lawyers Assisting Workers (ILAW) Network, which brings together workers’ rights lawyers from around the globe. From 2011 through 2016, Jeff was the Legal Director of the International Trade Union Confederation (ITUC) and perviously served as the AFL-CIO’s Deputy Director of the International Department and Global Economic Policy Specialist from 2006-2011. He is the co-author of the recent book, The Right to Strike in International Law (Hart Publishing, 2020).

ILONA VOITKOVSKA
ilona.voitkovska@gmail.com
Ural State Law University

The Labour Law Lawyer, independent researcher, PhD student of Ural State Law University (Moscow and Ekaterinburg)

NEHA VYAS
neha.vyas589@gmail.com
Goethe University Frankfurt

Neha Vyas is a PhD scholarship holder of the Konrad Adenauer Foundation at the Law Faculty of the Goethe University. Her research interests include labour law, future of work, anti-discrimination law, feminist economics, intersectionality, gender equality and care work. She is the spokesperson for the gender initiative at Goethe University and a member of the Cornelia Goethe Center.

BERND WAAS
waas@jur.uni-frankfurt.de Goethe University Frankfurt

Professor for Labour Law and Civil Law, Goethe University Frankfurt, Germany

QIAN WEI
wqfran@gmail.com
China University of Labour Relations

Dr. Wei Qian, lecturer of China University of Labour Relations, mainly interested in comparative labor law and social security law.

MANFRED WEISS
Goethe University Frankfurt

Born 1940. 1974 – 2008 full professor for labour law and civil law (first at the University of Hamburg and since 1977 at the Goethe University in Frankfurt). Professor emeritus since 2008. Visiting Professor in many universities all over the world. 2000 - 2003 President of ILERA. For many years Consultant to the ILO 1980 and to the Commission of the EU. Technical Assistance to many countries. Honorary Doctorates: Budapest (2005), Lima (2006), Bordeaux (2011), Northwest University (NWU) / South Africa (2015). Bob Hepple Award of LLRN (2015). Fellow of the World Academy of Art and Science (WAAS)

MARLEY WEISS
mweiss@law.umaryland.edu
University of Maryland Carey School of Law

Marley Weiss, J.D. Harvard Law School, 1974, practiced law until 1984 with the United Automobile Workers union, then joined the faculty of the University of Maryland Carey School of Law. She has taught at ELTE and CEU in Budapest. She co-chairs the ABA Committee on Immigration and Human Trafficking, and previously co-chaired CRN08-Labor Rights of LSA. From 1995-2001, she chaired the U.S. National Advisory Committee regarding the NAFTA Labor Side Agreement. She has been awarded the Paul Steven Miller Scholarship Award for scholarship and leadership in the field. She researches international, transnational, and domestic U.S. labor and equality law.

JOHANNA WENCKEBACH

johanna-wenckebach@boeckler.de Hans-Böckler-Stiftung

Since 2019 Scientific Director of the Hugo Sinzheimer Institute, Frankfurt; Lecturer at the Berlin School of Economics and Law; European Academy of Labour, Frankfurt and EBS Law School, Wiesbaden; Professional career and practice: Honorary judge at the Labour Court of Berlin; former Supervisory Board member, Volkswagen Sachsen GmbH; former collective bargaining lawyer, IG Metall; legal clerkship in Berlin and Potsdam; former research assistant at the law chairs of Eva Kocher, Frankfurt/Oder; Felix Welti, Kassel; Guy Davidov, Jerusalem; former PhD Scholarship holder; law studies in Berlin, Germany and Salamanca, Spain.

ANNAMARIA WESTREGÅRD

annamaria.westregard@har.lu.se
Lund University

Annamaria Westregård focus in her research on self-employment and platformworkers in the collaborative economy in labour law and in the social security legislation. She has also made research about employee privacy and drug-testing in working life, sickness insurance systems and rehabilitation. She now leads a research project "The Social security system is challenged by the gig economy – social security protection for platform workers and others in new forms of employment". The project is founded by the Swedish Insurance Agency and IFAU- Institute for Evaluation of Labour Market and Education Policy.

KATARZYNA WIECZOREK

k.wieczorek@wpia.uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

Katarzyna Wieczorek is a PhD student at the University of Warsaw, Faculty of Law and Administration with specialisation in Labour Law. She is currently engaged in two research grants on Labour Law founded by the National Science Centre Poland. Her major interests concentrate on European Labour Law and International Labour Law. She is writing her doctoral thesis about cross-border transfer of undertaking. Katarzyna is also a practitioner focused on employment and incentives area.

MIROŚLAW WŁODARCZYK

mwlodarczyk@wpia.uni.lodz.pl
University of Lodz

Head of the Department of the Labour Law at the University of Lodz, Supervisor of PhD Studies at the Faculty of Law and Administration. The author of numerous scientific publications related to sources of labor law, subjects and content of the employment relationship, the employment of young people and children, and regulation of the labor market.

MATHIAS WOUTERS

mathias.wouters@kuleuven.be
KU Leuven

Mathias Wouters is a PhD Researcher at the Institute for Labour Law of KU Leuven. His research is focused on platform work and, in particular, how the ILO's international labour standards can help to regulate the phenomenon. The thesis will be defended during the summer of 2021.

MICHAEL WYNN

m.wynn@kingston.ac.uk
Kingston University

Michael Wynn is Professor of Labour Law at Kingston University. His research interests focus primarily on labour law, social theory and maritime labour law. A graduate of King's College, London and University College, London, Michael Wynn, has written widely on the contract of employment, temporary agency workers, freedom of association and trade union recognition. He is interested in comparative and philosophical perspectives on labour and employment. Recent and current research projects involve social security and the self-employed, protection of workers in digital labour markets, employment regulation in pandemics and labour law utopias.

GAYE BURCU YILDIZ

gbyildiz@gmail.com
Ankara University Faculty Of Political Sciences

I have graduated from Ankara University Faculty of Law in 2000. I gained LLM (2003) and PhD (2008) degrees at Labour and Social Security Law. Since 2002, I've been working at the Ankara University, Faculty of Political Sciences, Department of Labour Economics and Labour Relations. My current position is associated professor. My research areas are fundamental rights at work, anti-discrimination and gender equality, collective labour law, social dialogue mechanisms, health and safety at work (including employer's liability). I've conducted researches and published articles and books about these topics.

HELENA YSÀS

helena.ysas@uab.cat
Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona

Helena Ysàs is Lecturer in Labour and Social Security Law at the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona (Spain). Her research interests mainly focus on social dialogue, trade union participation, collective bargaining and worker representation bodies.

AELIM YUN

aelimyun@hotmail.com
Centre for Labour & Welfare Law, Seoul National University

Aelim Yun is Research Fellow at the Centre for Labour & Welfare Law of Seoul National University. She is also a founding member of the Institute for Workers' Rights of the Korean Confederation of Trade Unions (KCTU) Legal Centre. Since 1999, she has worked as union educator for organizing precarious workers in the South Korea, and served as Research Coordinator of the Korean Committee of Precarious Workers Unions. She is an Advisory Committee Member at the National Human Rights Commission of Korea, and a Public Interest Commissioner at Seoul Regional Labour Relations Commission.

ZAHRA YUSIFLI

zahrayusifli@gmail.com
University of Luxembourg

Zahra Yusifli is a doctoral researcher at the University of Luxembourg. Her research interests lie at the intersection of digital work and international labour regulations. She has previously worked as a Junior Labour Law Officer at the International Labour Organization in Geneva and a legal officer at a sectoral trade union in Azerbaijan. Zahra holds a master degree from the London School of Economics and Political Science and a bachelor degree from the University College Roosevelt of Utrecht University.

REBECCA ZAHN

rebecca.zahn@strath.ac.uk
University of Strathclyde

Rebecca's main research interests and specialisation lie in European, national and comparative labour law. She has published numerous articles and is the author of New Labour Laws in Old Member States (Cambridge University Press, 2017). She is currently working on the relationship between historical studies and comparative labour law in order to understand the development of labour/employment laws and their role in society.

HENRIQUE ZANIN

henriquezanin@outlook.com
University of Sao Paulo

Human rights and diversity lawyer, researcher and advocate. Master of Laws candidate at the University of Sao Paulo Faculty of Law. Interested in diversity, social inclusion, human rights, LGBTI rights, migration, alternative dispute resolution methods, work and transitional justice.

ANIA ZBYSZEWSKA

ania.zbyszewska@carleton.ca
Carleton University

Ania researches regulation of work and labour markets from a critical, socio-legal perspective that is conceptually and methodologically informed by feminist political economy and critical policy studies. She has written on the gendered (and other relational) dimensions of work and labour markets and the regulatory challenges and possibilities inherent in their historical constitution and ongoing transformations. Her recent work revolves around the interface of work and environmental regulation, with focus on legal contestations and conflicts produced by jurisdictional boundaries and legal dis/articulations as well as the possibilities inherent in more ecologically-attuned forms of governance and social organization of work.

NUNA ZEKIĆ

n.zekic@tilburguniversity.edu
Tilburg University

Dr. Nuna Zekić is associate professor at the Department of Private, Business and Labour Law at Tilburg University, the Netherlands.

WEIDONG ZHANG

w.zhang.11@law.leidenuniv.nl
Leiden University

Weidong Zhang is a PhD Candidate at the Department of Labour Law and Social Security of Leiden University. Before he came to the Netherlands, he obtained a bachelor's degree in law (political science) and a master's degree in public administration both with distinction (cum laude) from Southeast University, Nanjing, China. His research interest focuses on international labour law and comparative labour law, particularly on the topic of the ILO's decent work and decent working time. He has been involved the projects from the Chinese Ministry of Human Resources and Social Security, Jiangsu Province and Nanjing Municipal Government.

YIRAN ZHANG

yzhang@sjd.law.harvard.edu
Harvard Law School

Yiran Zhang is an S.J.D candidate at Harvard Law School and a Graduate Student Associate at Harvard University Asia Center. Her dissertation project uses ethnographic and comparative methods to study the connection between care work and the informal economy in East Asia and the U.S. She holds an LL.B. from Tsinghua University and an LL.M. from Harvard Law School.

LIZHEN ZHENG

435204327@qq.com
Fujian Normal University

Associate professor of International Labour Law, Director of International Law Department, Law School of Fujian Normal University, China. Visiting professor of ILR School of Cornell University, USA (2018-2019), work with Prof.Lance Compa.

LOUIE ZREIK

zreik.louie.law.office@gmail.com
Moscow State University

I'm 56 years old, living in Nazareth, a specialist in Israeli labor law. I did my PhD in labor law at Lomonosov Moscow State University. I worked for 18 years as a juridical consultant of the trade union (Histadrut) in Israel. I have an attorney office specialised in labor law and I achieved some important precedents. I'm the legal consultant of llaboum municipality, since 2013. my candidate dissertation defence is about "The Position of the Custom in the Labor Law Legal References".

AGNIESZKA ZWOLIŃSKA

a.zwolinska@wpia.uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

Agnieszka Zwolińska PhD, assistant professor, University of Warsaw, Department of Labour Law and Social Policy, attorney at law, specialist in labour law, mediator.